89th Year—16

Jobs, Defense Highlight State Of Union Talk

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, handing the election-year Congress a retreat legislative program with a couple of new wrinkles, called on the Senate and House today to reject "the intense pressures of a political year."

In a 4,000-word State of the Union address, prepared for delivery at a live-broadcast joint session, Nixon said he and Congress should close ranks "in making sure that legislation the nation needs does not become hostage to the political interest of any party or nation."

The President, an announced candidate for a second term, said he wants a bigger defense budget and a "new technology program" to encourage research, create jobs and make American industry more competitive abroad.

He promised to unveil later in the year a plan to finance public schools without burdening the property-tax system.

Nixon's delivery of the message coincided with the beginning of his fourth year in office.

Otherwise, Nixon said little about new initiatives but stressed instead that Congress should act on "more than 90 major administration proposals" such as welfare reform, government reorganization and revenue sharing that have been hanging fire for a year or longer.

In a companion 15,000-word written State of the Union document, the chief executive warned over his past arguments on behalf of the pending bills.

In his written presentation, Nixon said his planned visits this year to Communist China and the Soviet Union "will mean not that our differences have disappeared or will disappear in the near future." The important thing, he said, "is that we talk about these differences rather than fight about them."

"It would be a serious mistake," he continued, "to say that nothing can come of our expanded communications with Peking and Moscow. But it would also be a mistake to expect too much too quickly."

Discussing home-front reaction to the Vietnam war, Nixon wrote:

"There has been a tendency among some to swing from one extreme to the other in the wake of Vietnam, from wanting to do too much in the world to wanting to do too little. We must resist this temptation to overreact."

For the United States to withdraw from international responsibilities "would be to make a dangerous error," he said.

If anyone had doubts the political season is at hand, Nixon erased them at the outset of his speech for the joint session.

At a time when at least 10 members of Congress are vying for Nixon's office, he said:

"There are more candidates for the presidency in this chamber today than there probably have been at any one time in the whole history of the Republic..."

"I know the political pressures in this session of the Congress will be great... There is an honest division of opinion, not only between the parties but within the parties, on some issues of foreign policy and domestic policy as well."

"However, there are great national problems that are so vital they transcend partisanship. Let us have our debates. Let us have our honest differences. But let us join in keeping the national interest first. Let us join in making sure that legislation the nation needs does not become hostage to the political interest of any party or any person."

In explaining the scant number of fresh ideas he was submitting, Nixon said, "There is ample precedent, in this election year, for me to present you with a huge list of new proposals, knowing full well that there could be no possibility that they could be enacted even if you worked night and day."

Saying "I shall not do that," Nixon contended he was limiting himself to "only vital programs which are within the capacity of the Congress to enact, within the capacity of the budget to finance, and which I believe should be above partisanship."

Rahman Invited On Russian Trip

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (AP) — The Soviet government has invited Prime Minister Mujibur Rahman of Bangladesh to Moscow, a newspaper close to the Pakistani Foreign Office reported today.

The New Times said the Russians would invite Pakistani President Zulfikar Ali Bhutto after they met with Sheikh Mujib. But the paper said Mujib would not visit the Soviet Union until the Russians recognize his government.

Diplomatic sources said Moscow apparently is trying to mediate among Pakistan, Bangladesh and India. The diplomats said Moscow has relayed a proposal from the Indians to the Pakistanis to begin peace talks. But the Indians said they wouldn't talk until Pakistan recognizes the independence of Bangladesh.

Army Mum On Massacre

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon says it can't disclose details of a second alleged massacre in the My Lai area because they might prejudice the view of Lt. William L. Calley Jr.'s sentence.

Calley was convicted of murder in connection with the My Lai massacre, and the Army says the second incident, at nearby My Khe on the same day, isn't related.

But Defense Department spokesman Jerry W. Friedheim said Wednesday, "The view of our legal officers" is that "any specific questions in that area might be related to the pending review" of the Calley sentence.

Seymour Hersh, who won a Pulitzer prize for reporting details of the March 1968 slayings at My Lai, wrote in the current issue of the New Yorker magazine that Army investigators were told an American platoon shot up the hamlet of My Khe and killed 90 to 100 women, children and old men.

Capt. Thomas K. Willingham was charged with murder in connection with the My Khe case, but the Army later dropped the charges for lack of evidence and never explained what happened there.

Big South Viet Drive Under Way

MIGs Seek To Divert U.S. Jets

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. military officials say the reason North Vietnam's MIG jet fighters are coming out more aggressively these days may be an effort to divert American planes from blasting Communist supply lines in Laos.

If so, the North Vietnamese have had some success as a result of these bolder air feints, even though MIG fire is credited with knocking down only one American F4 Phantom jet during recent operations.

Officers said U.S. commanders have assigned more fighters to guard bombers and other strike planes in what is called the "MIG threat area" in the Laotian-North Vietnamese border region.

"This harassment does divert some of our efforts that would go into interdicting the Ho Chi Minh trail," a senior officer said.

The North Vietnamese MIGs are mounting their bolder sorties at a time when American air power in Southeast Asia is down to about one quarter of what it was before U.S. control began in 1969.

Veteran U.S. flying officers said that expansion of North Vietnam's radar gives the MIG force some initial advantage.

"With their ground control radar, they can see us when we can't see them," a command pilot said.

Nonetheless, American pilots who flew during the sustained U.S. bombing campaign against North Vietnam several years ago say the tactic being used by the MIG pilots indicates the North Vietnamese airmen are unwilling to engage in all-out dogfights.

"They dash in, then dash out and if they score a hit it's a matter of luck," the command pilot said.

These tactics strengthen the belief of American analysts that the principal aim is harassment.

According to intelligence reports, the North Vietnamese have not changed the general deployment of their MIGs, which are based in a position to shield Hanoi and Haiphong.

The MIGs which have appeared increasingly over the Laotian-North Vietnamese border area are flying out of their normal airfields in the north, landing to refuel in forward bases in the upper panhandle and returning to their home bases after their sorties.

Full - Employment Budget Works - - For Government

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A full-employment budget, President Nixon's bookkeeping device, is spending what you think you ought to be making.

But don't try it on your personal budget unless you're prepared for a bad credit rating and bankruptcy. No sensible businessman would operate that way, either. His profits would turn into losses and his business would go under.

But if you're the government of the United States, spending what you think you ought to be making is not only possible, but under Nixon it is desirable. The budget he sends to Congress next Monday will reflect that desire.

The full-employment concept works for the government because it owns the printing presses that crank out the dollar bills that everyone spends. And, besides, it has a spotless credit rating.

A full-employment budget is deficit spending with a theoretical lid. The lid is what the government thinks it ought to be making. That, say the economists, is what the Internal Revenue Service would collect if the economy were working well—if everyone had a job and business were running at maximum efficiency.

But that's too ideal, say Nixon's economists. They define full employment as about 4 per cent joblessness since there are lots of people who can never find work. Getting below that 4 per cent also has a catalytic effect on the inflation rate.

So what must be done is decide how much the government ought to be making from taxpayers if there were 4 per cent unemployment. This "full-employment revenue" dictates how much the government can spend. If the economy is bad and joblessness is high, as it is now, this means a big actual deficit.

In fiscal 1972, that's what is happening to Nixon. The deficit is going to soar to about $40 billion, highest since 1945.

Nixon's budget that will go to Congress Monday will retain

Election Bill Acceptable To Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House says the campaign-spending bill, hailed on and off Capitol Hill as heralding an end to secrecy about giving and taking political cash, meets President Nixon's objectives for reform.

A few hours after Congress sent the bipartisan compromise legislation to the White House Wednesday, deputy presidential press secretary Gerald L. Warren said he expects Nixon will sign it into law expeditiously.

This would mean America would have the first presidential-campaign spending limit in its history, new political-financing disclosure rules covering all federal office seekers, and the most sweeping election reform law in half a century.

It would end "the short, unhappy life of the TV blitz," said Russell Hemenway, head of the reform-seeking National Committee for an Effective Congress, and would be "a crucial first step toward cleansing politics of the secrecy, duplicity and special interest influence which has sown widespread cynicism and doubt among the American people."

Reform advocates on both sides of the House's political aisle rose to applaud the goals of the Senate-approved compromise Wednesday. Then the congressmen passed it 334-19.

Under the bill's media-spending formula, a presidential candidate's radio-TV budget this fall would be restricted to $8.4 million—representing a six-cent broadcast advertising share of each dime that the bill would allow for electronic, newspaper, magazine and outdoor ads and paid telephone campaigns.

End Ban On Military Cargo Flow

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Pacific Maritime Association has reversed its decision against handling military cargo at West Coast ports struck by 13,000 longshoremen.

The Pentagon told the PMA its original plan was contrary to the best interests of national defense.

In another development Wednesday, the PMA and the striking International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union agreed to resume negotiations no later than Jan. 31. Contract talks were broken off Monday.

PMA president Edmund Flynn said cancellation of Tuesday's order to discontinue handling military cargo after this week would give a bargaining advantage to the longshoremen. During the walkout, strikers in the San Francisco Bay area are earning about 30 per cent of normal wages by handling military cargo, Flynn said.

But the executive committee of the PMA, which represents 120 West Coast shipping and stevedore firms, agreed quickly to the handling of military cargo after a telegram from the Pentagon Wednesday, Flynn said.

The telegram was sent by Barry J. Shilito, assistant secretary of defense, Flynn said. Pacific ports handle an estimated 75 per cent of Southeast Asia-bound military cargo.

District Court Indicts Dean

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Fifteen of 25 indictments returned by a U.S. District Court grand jury Wednesday involved Selective Service law violations.

Those indicted on other charges included Homer Dean, 41, of Circleville, accused of possession of stolen U.S. government property; Howard R. Keaton, 39, of Bainbridge, charged with filing false income tax returns in 1965 and 1967; Wendell Embury, 35, of Jetson, Ky., Dennis Wilson, 33, no home address, and James Reynolds, 35, of Phyllis, Ky., jointly indicted for the May 18, 1971 robbery of the Vinton Banking Co., Vinton County.

Leonard E. Kerschner, 32, was indicted for armed robbery of the Bank of Corning in Perry County, Aug. 16, 1971.

Woman Wants Hurricanes Named After U.S. Senators

MIAMI (AP) — Hurricanes should be named after U.S. senators instead of women, a Miami feminist has told a top-level gathering of the nation's weathermen.

And Roxey Bolton says she's rather partial to dubbing the storms "him-ricanes," too. She says hurricane sounds like "her-ricane."

"I'm sick and tired of hearing that 'Cheryl was no lady as she devastated such and such a town,' or 'Betsy annihilated this or that,'" said Mrs. Bolton, a former vice president of the National Organization of Women—NOW.

"As long as people can name her-ricanes after us it's just another way of putting women down."

Her proposal to the annual National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration hurricane season planning conference received a chilly reception Wednesday, but still not the frigid greeting she received when she first broached the idea to the scientific gathering three years ago.

Dr. Karl Johannessen, associate director of the National Weather Service, told Mrs. Bolton that naming the often-deadly storms after women was nothing personal. But he balked at her suggestion to name them after senators.

"Would you want to cast a slur on United States Senators?" he asked.

He then suggested names of men be used one year, the names of women the next in an alternating system.

"Mr. Johannessen, we've already been 'blessed' for 18 years—enough is enough," Mrs. Bolton countered.

15,000 Troops Taking Part In Offensive

SAIGON (AP) — Thousands of South Vietnamese paratroopers, rangers and armored troops pushed through rubber plantation country 40 to 50 miles northwest of Saigon today in a new operation.

The South Vietnamese command said 10,000 to 15,000 men were taking part in the drive which began last Saturday several miles south of the Michelin plantation, the country's largest and once a Viet Cong stronghold.

Few North Vietnamese and Viet Cong have been encountered. South Vietnamese headquarters said that in the biggest clash to date, a ranger unit killed 10 of the enemy Wednesday evening at a cost of one ranger killed and four wounded.

Military sources said the purpose of the drive is to keep enemy forces off balance and disrupt any plans for an offensive in the area during the Tet celebration of the lunar new year, which begins Feb. 15.

At the northern end of the country, just south of Da Nang, Vietnamese infantrymen killed 10 enemy in an operation launched after a militia outpost was shelled Tuesday. Headquarters said three government troops were killed and five wounded in the clash.

The South Vietnamese reported 22 small-scale enemy attacks in the past 24 hours, continuing a so-called high point of enemy activity into the 11th day.

In the air war, U.S. B52s hit along the western side of South Vietnam's central highlands for the fourth day today, keeping up their campaign to disrupt enemy forces believed to be preparing for an offensive next month.

Informed sources said other raids were flown against enemy bases areas on the Laotian side of the border.

While most of the ground action in South Vietnam's 2nd Military Region at present is taking place on the Binh Dinh coastal plain to the east, senior U.S. officials expect an enemy drive in the highlands, possibly timed to coincide with President Nixon's trip to Peking next month.

Keaton, 39, of Bainbridge, charged with filing false income tax returns in 1965 and 1967; Wendell Embry, 35, of Jetson, Ky., Dennis Wilson, 33, no home address, and James Reynolds, 35, of Phyllis, Ky., jointly indicted for the May 18, 1971, robbery of the Vinton Banking Co., Vinton County.

Move Aimed At Repeal Of State Income Tax Started

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A movement which would, in effect, put Ohio's new income tax to a statewide vote got rolling Wednesday with the filing of initial petitions with Atty. Gen. William Brown.

The petitions seek repeal of an amendment which permits the levying of a state income tax without a vote of the people.

Under Ohio law, the attorney general must rule on the validity of the initial petitions, based on the statutes, before backers of the proposal may launch a full-scale petition campaign to bring about a vote on the issue in November.

A total of 318,414 signatures—10 per cent of the vote in the last gubernatorial election—would be necessary to put the proposal on the ballot.

Sponsor of the repeal movement said if voters approved the repeal at the polls it would end the current .5 to 3.5 per cent personal income tax and 4 to 8 per cent corporation tax as of Jan. 1, 1973.

Signing the initial petitions were State Reps. Joseph Tuley, R-37 Mentor Chester Cruze, R-68 Cincinnati, Robert Levitt, R-91 Canton, Howard Knight, R-13 Rising Sun, and Raymond Luther, R-19 Newark.

Rep. Robert Netzley, R-7 Laura, admitted leader of the movement, accompanied the five petition signers to Brown's office.

"We represent the voters of Ohio," said Tuley who presented the petitions to Brown.

Tuley later told The Associated Press he had endorsements from 40 Republicans who voted against the income tax bill in the House Dec. 20 as well as two others appointed to their seats since the bill was passed.

After accepting the petitions, Brown said he would get one of his assistants on the job "right away."

Netzley and Rep. Lloyd George Kerns, R-16, Richmond, were signers of original petitions, but were replaced with Knight and Luther on the redrafted version that was filed.

Tuley said Kerns was not around when the redrafted petitions were ready.

Knight replaced Netzley, according to Netzley, because under the legislative reapportionment plan Knight will oppose House Speaker Charles Kurfess, R-4 Perryburg, in the Republican primary, and "we thought this could help him (Knight)."

Netzley and the other signers are irked because Kurfess and 12 other Republicans voted for the tax when it got final approval in the House. The total vote was 56-42.

If Brown decides the petitions do not fulfill the requirements of law, he can send them back for redrafting.

Once they meet his specifications, they then must be certified by Secretary of State Ted Brown before going into general circulation.

Tuley emphasized that a vote for the constitutional amendment change would not affect municipal income taxes, which can be levied up to 1 per cent without a vote.

Backers of the repeal movement said the fact that cities must go to the voters for increases was one of the provisions within the constitution that gave them the idea.

"If that is good government at the local level, why isn't it at the state?" asked Tuley.

The proposed amendment would permit no state income tax, regardless of amount, without voter approval.

Jaycees Sponsor Safety Education For Juveniles

Two of the community service projects of the Circleville Jaycees emphasize safety education.

Just begun this year is their Defensive Driving Education Program. The other project has been a part of the Jaycees' activities for several years — shooter education.

In September, the Circleville Jaycees started the defensive driving program in connection with the Pickaway County Juvenile Court.

Juvenile traffic offenders are required by the court to attend one session, which consists of four classes on defensive driving, before driving privileges are restored.

The Jaycees are trying to make the young traffic offenders more alert and careful when behind the wheel of an automobile.

In these classes the traffic offenders are given facts, which come from the National Safety Council and also they are shown movies on seat belts, accidents, drinking and drugs.

The Jaycees feel this project is very worthwhile to the city of Circleville and the surrounding area because it is helping to make our streets and highways safe.

The instructors are all members of the Circleville Jaycees. They are: Sam Reeser, Steve Cherrington, Jerry Smith, Larry Eveland, Ronald Eitel, who is co-chairman and Jim Roeser, project chairman.

Millard Dorn, probation officer of the court, has been working with the Jaycees on this project. Classes are held every Wednesday from 8 to 9 p.m. in the Municipal Court Room.

Sixteen area youngsters recently completed the Jaycee Sponsored Shooter Education Course.

The instructor for the four hour course was Tom Weldon, state game protector. Instruction was given in safe handling and care of sporting arms and ammunition, basic rules concerning firearms, description and identification of sporting arms, hunting safety, game laws and related topics.

Following the instruction period a written examination was given and Ohio Safe Hunter shoulder patches and identification cards were given to all those who had a passing grade.

Rawlins Guilty Of Sodomy In Municipal Court Decision

Dennis K. Rawlins, Lancaster, charged by city police Nov. 11 with soliciting an act of sexual perversion with an 11-year-old boy, was found guilty of sodomy Wednesday in Municipal Court.

In a ruling by Judge Sterling Lamb, Rawlins will be entrusted to the care of a psychiatrist and must submit monthly progress reports to the court. Actual sentencing will be deferred until completion of therapy.

Rawlins pleaded not guilty to the charge through Lancaster attorney, J. Michael Acton, but changed his plea to guilty before the court session Wednesday.

He is being treated at the Fairfield County Mental Health Clinic.

In other city court cases Wednesday, William Hunt, 57, Route 1, Kingston, was fined $10 and cost for operating an unsafe vehicle.

Festus Walters, 67, Route 2, forfeited $24 bond for speeding 59 miles per hour in a 35 zone.

Robert L. Timmons, 22, Route 3, forfeited $24 bond for failing to stop at a stop sign.

David Van Buskirk, 27, 962 S. Washington St., forfeited $24 bond for failing to heed a stop light.

Richard A. Wagner, 35, Route 1, Kingston, forfeited $24.05 bond for failing to yield the right of way.

Ronald E. Moore forfeited $24 bond for intoxication. He was apprehended Wednesday morning by Pickaway County Sheriff J. Phillip Brown, after he was spotted trying to enter a trailer at the Caravan Trailer Park.

While Brown was questioning Moore, William T. Hatfield, 19, Columbus, pulled up behind the cruiser and said he would take Moore home.

Brown noticed that his car was equipped with two smooth tires, had no left tail light or license plate light and a disconnected muffler.

He forfeited $24 bond for driving an unsafe vehicle.

Man Sent To Mansfield

George Lillibridge, 35, was sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the Mansfield Reformatory by Pickaway County Common Pleas Court Judge William Ammer Wednesday.

Lillibridge was charged with assaulting a 10-year-old child. Judge Ammer noted that Lillibridge should be allowed credit for the time he has spent in the county jail since entering a plea of guilty to the charge of November 1.

Lennie Moore, also known as James L. Moore, was ordered held in custody until the probation officer could investigate his case.

He was placed on probation for three years last Sept. 17 after entering a guilty plea to grand larceny. While on probation, he was found guilty of having a stolen check in his possession. He reportedly has been charged with offenses both in Jackson and Chillicothe.

Mrs. Gloria Patterson, Hilliard, had probation extended until Sept. 23, 1976. She was charged with issuing a check to G. C. Murphy Co. when she had insufficient funds in her bank account. She had previously been convicted of a similar charge.

A pre-sentencing report was ordered by Judge Ammer for Gary Bennett, Route 2, Williamsport. Bennett was charged with burglary of Logan Elm Bar.

The program presented by Monsalvatge was based on truths long standing in the life of America, which he expanded to cover nearly every aspect of life today.

He noted that people today need to remember the value of the free enterprise system, the competitive nature of which he called "a basic natural law of nature." He referred to people on welfare as a group denying this basic law by getting something for nothing.

The speaker expressed his belief that adults today handicap the young by failing to help them have a full understanding of the credit system, by forcing hard sell techniques to tempt the young who are not fully aware of what the high interest rates mean. He was impatient with people who say it is impossible to provide a nest egg for the future, saying that anyone can learn to save regularly with discipline.

Monsalvatge told the assembled group that it may be necessary for Americans to re-evaluate their needs and desires in order to place them in their proper order with actual needs foremost.

As a scheduled speaker at Kent State University during the 1970 conflict, Monsalvatge was not able to appear before the students, but did observe the problems first hand. He told the Chamber assembly that he felt sorry for those killed and injured, but believes that their deaths were the direct result of failing to respect the law and curfew imposed by city leaders.

Stock List Up Slightly

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices held to modest gains in moderate trading today, showing little inclination to advance.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was up 1.81 at 916.77.

Advances outnumbered declines on the New York Stock Exchange by 5 to 3.

Analysts said the market was anticipating possible favorable comments from President Nixon when he gives his State of the Union message later today.

Also, the Investment Company Institute reported that mutual fund sales exceeded redemptions last month.

Oils, airlines, chemicals, steels, rubber issues and electronics were up. Motors, mail order-retail, aircrafts, and rails were off, while utilities and metals were mixed.

Soviet Vessels Resume Journey Into U.S. Harbor

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — Two Soviet fishing vessels accused of violating U.S. waters are plowing through Bering Sea pack ice with their Coast Guard escort towards Adak Island and an uncertain reception by federal legal authorities.

Coast Guard spokesmen said Russians aboard the 362-foot factory ship Lamut, flagship of an 80-vessel Soviet herring fleet, and the stern trawler Kolyvan abruptly agreed Wednesday to leave the St. Matthew Island area after more than a day of delay.

Both were taken into custody late Monday by the Storis about 9 1/2 miles from St. Matthew, some 200 miles west of the Alaska mainland. They were accused of conducting illegal fishery support activity within the U.S. 12-mile fishery zone.

But G. Kent Edwards, the U.S. attorney for Alaska, said in Anchorage he did not know if the ships and their officers would be charged formally.

Edwards said the Coast Guard had not provided a detailed report of the seizure, an action that at one time led to authorization for the Storis to fire a warning shot across the Lamut's bow.

Edwards said that if charged with illegal fishery support activity and convicted, the ships' commanding officers could be fined up to $100,000 each and imprisoned for a year, and the ships confiscated.

Edwards and the Coast Guard said the case could be the first in which a foreign vessel was charged with illegal

He pointed out that willful failure to comply carries serious penalties.

a glowing picture of developments during the first three years of his term, said anew: "We must now go on to build a generation of peace."

But he added that until an international arms reduction agreement is reached, "we must maintain the strength necessary to deter war." He went on:

"Because of rising research-and-development costs, because of increases in military and civilian pay, and because of the need to proceed with new weapons systems, my budget for the coming fiscal year will provide for an increase in defense spending."

Details will be announced Monday when Nixon submits his budget for the 1973 book-keeping year that begins July 1.

That budget presumably will disclose some details, too, of the President's plan for "major initiatives to stimulate more imaginative use of America's great capacity for technological advance, and to direct it toward improving the quality of life for every American."

For the moment, Nixon only promised "a new program of federal partnership in technological research and development—with federal incentives to increase private research, and federally supported research on projects designed to improve our everyday lives in ways that will range from improving mass transit to developing new systems of emergency health care that could save thousands of lives annually."

Nixon said the answer to increased foreign competition "is not to build a wall around America" but to improve U.S. technology and productivity.

As a sort of bonus, he said, the technology program will "put to use the skills of many highly trained Americans—skills that might otherwise be wasted."

As for schools and property taxes, Nixon said:

"Soaring school costs and soaring property-tax rates now threaten both our communities and our schools. They threaten communities because property taxes—which more than doubled in the 10 years from 1960 to 1970—have become one of the most oppressive and discriminatory of all taxes, hitting most cruelly at the elderly and the retired; and they threaten schools, as hard-pressed voters understandably reject new bond issues at the polls."

Nixon said that once two federal commissions have completed studies of the situation, "I shall make my final recommendations for relieving the burden of property taxes and providing both fair and adequate financing for our children's education."

Whatever the outcome, he said he is determined that "local school board must have control over local schools."

Many observers expect the schools-taxes question to be a major point of debate in the presidential election campaign next fall.

Perhaps even more anticipate that the health of the economy will be a major issue.

On that subject, Nixon cited recent encouraging statistics and asserted, "We can look with confidence to 1972 as the year when the back of inflation will finally be broken."

"Good as this record is, it is not good enough—not when we still have an unemployment rate of six per cent...."

"Our goal is full employment in peacetime—and we intend to meet that goal."

In the area of foreign policy, Nixon broke no new ground but restated his past positions.

"I shall soon be visiting the People's Republic of China and the Soviet Union," he said. "I shall go there with no illusions. We have great differences. But peace depends on the ability of great powers to live together on the same planet despite their differences. We would not be true to our obligation to generations yet unborn if we failed to seize this moment to do everything in our power to ensure that we will be able to talk about these differences rather than fight about them."

Nixon has been under fire from the more conservative elements in his party because of his overtures to Peking.

The chief executive said he has "carefully and deliberately adjusted" foreign policy to meet changing times. "We make only those commitments we are able and prepared to meet," he said.

Nixon said it is U.S. policy to "maintain a nuclear deterrent adequate to meet any threat... help other nations develop the capability of defending themselves... faithfully honor all of our treaty commitments... act to defend our interests whenever and wherever they are threatened any place in the world."

But he added that "where our interests or our treaty commitments are not involved our role will be limited." In such cases, he said, the United States will not intervene militarily, will use its influence to prevent wars from starting or to stop those that have begun, and "once war is over we will do our share in helping to bind up the wounds of those who have participated in it."

Nixon said some believe the nation has lost its faith, idealism and strength of character. He countered:

"If we were indifferent to the shortcomings of our society, or complacent about our institutions, or blind to the lingering inequities—then we would have lost our way."

"The fact that we have these concerns is evidence that our ideals are still strong."

Full . . .

the full-employment concept. It will be balanced at full-employment revenues—and contain a big actual deficit. But why use such a technique in the first place?

To Nixon, it is a self-fulfilling prophecy. He says if you spend what you think you ought to be making, you eventually should be making what you are spending.

In theory, this is so because big actual deficits are stimulative. The budget is translated into federal projects; federal projects into jobs. Jobs mean a snappier economy and that means more tax money.

Thus, the circle is complete without touching off inflation.

Former President Lyndon B. Johnson rolled up a $25-billion deficit in fiscal 1968. Nixon's deficits are bigger. But his administration still blames Johnson for triggering an inflationary boom, contending there was no need for deficit spending when the economy was at full employment in 1968.

In other words, the Nixon people say, the Johnson administration spent more than it thought it ought to be making.

Edwards and the Coast Guard said the case could be the first in which a foreign vessel was charged with illegal support activity rather than actual fishing.

The Russians contended they were within the 12-mile limit because of bad weather.

Beefed up units of armed guards were aboard both Russian ships as the trip to Adak began. Spokesmen said Vladimir Artemov, the fishing fleet's civilian commander, and Igor Bobtuk, the Lamut's master, were being detained aboard the Storis.

The two men were taken aboard the U.S. vessel Tuesday after the Lamut attempted to escape but was outmaneuvered by the icebreaker in frozen waters. The escape attempt brought the authorization for the Storis to shoot across the bow if necessary.

The three ships drifted for most of Wednesday about 20 miles from St. Matthew, while what spokesmen said were "certain diplomatic talks" were conducted. Parallel negotiations were under way in Washington.

Apparently as a direct result of the talks, the Soviets agreed to follow the Storis' orders.

Details will be announced Monday when Nixon submits his budget for the 1973 book-keeping year that begins July 1.

That budget presumably will disclose some details, too, of the President's plan for "major initiatives to stimulate more imaginative use of America's great capacity for technological advance, and to direct it toward improving the quality of life for every American."

For the moment, Nixon only promised "a new program of federal partnership in technological research and development—with federal incentives to increase private research, and federally supported research on projects designed to improve our everyday lives in ways that will range from improving mass transit to developing new systems of emergency health care that could save thousands of lives annually."

Nixon said the answer to increased foreign competition "is not to build a wall around America" but to improve U.S. technology and productivity.

As a sort of bonus, he said, the technology program will "put to use the skills of many highly trained Americans—skills that might otherwise be wasted."

As for schools and property taxes, Nixon said: "Soaring school costs and soaring property-tax rates now threaten both our communities and our schools. They threaten communities because property taxes—which more than doubled in the 10 years from 1960 to 1970—have become one of the most oppressive and discriminatory of all taxes, hitting most cruelly at the elderly and the retired; and they threaten schools, as hard-pressed voters understandably reject new bond issues at the polls."

Nixon said that once two federal commissions have completed studies of the situation, "I shall make my final recommendations for relieving the burden of property taxes and providing both fair and adequate financing for our children's education."

Whatever the outcome, he said he is determined that "local school board must have control over local schools."

Many observers expect the schools-taxes question to be a major point of debate in the presidential election campaign next fall.

Perhaps even more anticipate that the health of the economy will be a major issue.

On that subject, Nixon cited recent encouraging statistics and asserted, "We can look with confidence to 1972 as the year when the back of inflation will finally be broken."

"Good as this record is, it is not good enough—not when we still have an unemployment rate of six per cent...."

"Our goal is full employment in peacetime—and we intend to meet that goal."

In the area of foreign policy, Nixon broke no new ground but restated his past positions.

"I shall soon be visiting the People's Republic of China and the Soviet Union," he said. "I shall go there with no illusions. We have great differences. But peace depends on the ability of great powers to live together on the same planet despite their differences. We would not be true to our obligation to generations yet unborn if we failed to seize this moment to do everything in our power to ensure that we will be able to talk about these differences rather than fight about them."

Nixon has been under fire from the more conservative elements in his party because of his overtures to Peking.

The chief executive said he has "carefully and deliberately adjusted" foreign policy to meet changing times. "We make only those commitments we are able and prepared to meet," he said.

Nixon said it is U.S. policy to "maintain a nuclear deterrent adequate to meet any threat... help other nations develop the capability of defending themselves... faithfully honor all of our treaty commitments... act to defend our interests whenever and wherever they are threatened any place in the world."

But he added that "where our interests or our treaty commitments are not involved our role will be limited." In such cases, he said, the United States will not intervene militarily, will use its influence to prevent wars from starting or to stop those that have begun, and "once war is over we will do our share in helping to bind up the wounds of those who have participated in it."

Nixon said some believe the nation has lost its faith, idealism and strength of character. He countered:

"If we were indifferent to the shortcomings of our society, or complacent about our institutions, or blind to the lingering inequities—then we would have lost our way."

"The fact that we have these concerns is evidence that our ideals are still strong."

Full . . .

the full-employment concept. It will be balanced at full-employment revenues—and contain a big actual deficit. But why use such a technique in the first place?

To Nixon, it is a self-fulfilling prophecy. He says if you spend what you think you ought to be making, you eventually should be making what you are spending.

In theory, this is so because big actual deficits are stimulative. The budget is translated into federal projects; federal projects into jobs. Jobs mean a snappier economy and that means more tax money.

Thus, the circle is complete without touching off inflation.

Former President Lyndon B. Johnson rolled up a $25-billion deficit in fiscal 1968. Nixon's deficits are bigger. But his administration still blames Johnson for triggering an inflationary boom, contending there was no need for deficit spending when the economy was at full employment in 1968.

In other words, the Nixon people say, the Johnson administration spent more than it thought it ought to be making.

Rawlins Guilty Of Sodomy In Municipal Court Decision

Dennis K. Rawlins, Lancaster, charged by city police Nov. 11 with soliciting an act of sexual perversion with an 11-year-old boy, was found guilty of sodomy Wednesday in Municipal Court.

In a ruling by Judge Sterling Lamb, Rawlins will be entrusted to the care of a psychiatrist and must submit monthly progress reports to the court. Actual sentencing will be deferred until completion of therapy.

Rawlins pleaded not guilty to the charge through Lancaster attorney, J. Michael Acton, but changed his plea to guilty before the court session Wednesday.

He is being treated at the Fairfield County Mental Health Clinic.

In other city court cases Wednesday, William Hunt, 57, Route 1, Kingston, was fined $10 and cost for operating an unsafe vehicle.

Festus Walters, 67, Route 2, forfeited $24 bond for speeding 59 miles per hour in a 35 zone.

Robert L. Timmons, 72, Route 3, forfeited $24 bond for failing to stop at a stop sign.

David Van Buskirk, 27, 962 S. Washington St., forfeited $24 bond for failing to heed a stop light.

Richard A. Wagner, 35, Route 1, Kingston, forfeited $24.05 bond for failing to yield the right of way.

Ronald E. Moore forfeited $24 bond for intoxication. He was apprehended Wednesday morning by Pickaway County Sheriff J. Phillip Brown, after he was spotted trying to enter a trailer at the Caravan Trailer Park.

While Brown was questioning Moore, William T. Hatfield, 19, Columbus, pulled up behind the cruiser and said he would take Moore home.

Brown noticed that his car was equipped with two smooth tires, had no left tail light or license plate light and a disconnected muffler.

He forfeited $24 bond for driving an unsafe vehicle.

Man Sent To Mansfield

George Lillibridge, 35, was sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the Mansfield Reformatory by Pickaway County Common Pleas Court Judge William Ammer Wednesday.

Lillibridge was charged with assaulting a 10-year-old child. Judge Ammer noted that Lillibridge should be allowed credit for the time he has spent in the county jail since entering a plea of guilty to the charge of November 1.

Lennie Moore, also known as James L. Moore, was ordered held in custody until the probation officer could investigate his case.

He was placed on probation for three years last Sept. 17 after entering a guilty plea to grand larceny. While on probation, he was found guilty of having a stolen check in his possession. He reportedly has been charged with offenses both in Jackson and Chillicothe.

Mrs. Gloria Patterson, Hilliard, had probation extended until Sept. 23, 1976. She was charged with issuing a check to G. C. Murphy Co. when she had insufficient funds in her bank account. She had previously been convicted of a similar charge.

A pre-sentencing report was ordered by Judge Ammer for Gary Bennett, Route 2, Williamsport. Bennett was charged with burglary of Logan Elm Bar.

Stock List Up Slightly

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices held to modest gains in moderate trading today, showing little inclination to advance.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was up 1.81 at 916.77.

Advances outnumbered declines on the New York Stock Exchange by 5 to 3.

Analysts said the market was anticipating possible favorable comments from President Nixon when he gives his State of the Union message later today.

Also, the investment Company Institute reported that mutual fund sales exceeded redemptions last month.

Oils, airlines, chemicals, steels, rubber issues and electronics were up. Motors, mail order-retail, aircrafts, and rails were off, while utilities and metals were mixed.

Brown Supports Vote Cost Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Rep. Clarence Brown, R-Ohio, hailed House passage of the campaign reform bill Wednesday as a "significant and necessary step toward election reform."

LSH Trials Scheduled For Feb. 15

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — Trial of the first of 31 persons indicted by a special state grand jury that investigated Lima State Hospital is scheduled to begin in Allen County Common Pleas Court Feb. 15.

Judge John Harnishfeger set the trial date Wednesday for William Huff, who was an attendant at the hospital for the criminally insane when indicted on three counts of aggravated assault.

The indictment alleges the incidents occurred in April and October, 1971. Huff is free on bond.

Harnishfeger granted attorney Joseph DaPore permission to question potential patient witnesses and to inspect personnel and patient records at the hospital.

But he denied DaPore's request for a transcript of proceedings before the special grand jury.

The indictments named 28 hospital employees and three former employees. Those indicted who were still working at the hospital were dismissed after they refused leaves of absence pending disposition of their cases.

Low Sulphur Coal Sent Wrong Place

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Seven carloads of low-sulfur coal being shipped to the Cleveland Municipal Light plant were delivered instead to the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co.

The mixup occurred in the transfer of the load from one railway line to another, said James Meehan, chief mechanical engineer for city's light and power division. Meehan said CEI would have to pay the coal and freight costs for the new load when it arrives at Muni Light in about a week.

Spanish - American Vets Still Proud

By TAHLMAN KRUMM
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio veterans of the Spanish-American War are about 200 strong, and they remain proud of their contribution to the nation.

On a tiny annual budget of less than $15,000 in state funds, two employees handle the flow of applications for assistance from veterans and their wives and widows.

All the applications are forwarded from the United Spanish War Veterans office to the federal Veterans Administration for final action.

In fast, says Winona Miller, the quasi-state agency operates as a kind of half-way house between the VA and the veterans themselves. "We provide the personal touch," she said.

Veterans and survivors are entitled to a number of benefits enacted by Congress after the nation's first war on foreign soil, a war fought entirely with volunteers. Benefits include "aid and attendance" for the blind, the bed-ridden, and for those disabled by disease. As for all war veterans, a burial allowance of $250 is provided.

"We don't deal with many people younger than 85," Mrs. Miller said. But she adds: "Some are pretty spry."

Mitchell Is Named In Liberties Suit

WASHINGTON (AP) — A group of newspaper reporters, two communications corporations and several prison inmates have filed suit against Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and the director of the federal Bureau of Prisons to prevent the bureau from blocking press interviews with prisoners, the American Civil Liberties Union announced today.

The plaintiffs include Tom Wicker of The New York Times, Don Singleton of The New York Daily News, Betty Medsger of The Washington Post, Nat Hentoff and Jack Newfield of The Village Voice, Playboy Enterprises Inc. of Delaware and The Amsterdam News Inc. of New York.

The titular head of the USWV is Commander William Atkins of Cincinnati, who serves without pay as its official representative at veterans functions. The 94-year-old honorary leader recently remarried.

The veterans organization itself dates back to the surrender of Cuban Gen. Torral in the island nation's eastern provinces on July 17, 1898. Its founders were drawn from the rank of the 8th Ohio Volunteer Infantry, who first called it The Society of the His-Spanio War.

A number of like organizations sprang up in the months following the war. In 1904, the three largest veterans groups in the nation—the Spanish War Veterans, the Spanish-American War Veterans, and the Service Men of the Spanish War—combined into the United Spanish War Veterans.

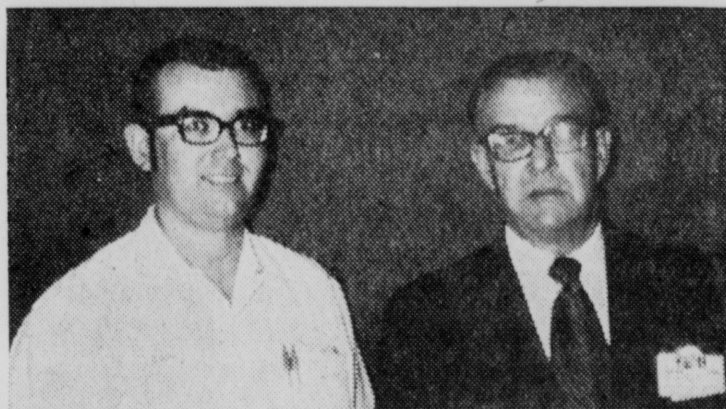

Eligible for membership were all soldiers and sailors who saw active service in the Caribbean, in the fighting associated with the Philippine Insurrection, or those assigned to the American expeditionary force in China during the Boxer Rebellion.

For years after the end of the fighting, the USWV enjoyed uncommon political influence in state and national politics. But with the advent of new wars and new and younger veterans, USWV influence waned.

UN Loses Appeal

The United Nations, which has a penchant for not doing anything right, hit a new plateau in 1971. It even lost money on its guided tours for the first time.

Tourists at the UN's New York buildings have been declining since 1969, when more than one million visitors were recorded. In 1970, the number was down to 938,000 and last year it dropped to 874,000.

The 1971 figure is particularly significant because of the widespread publicity surrounding the China question and the debate over the India-Pakistan war.

Thus, in a year when greater public attention was focused on the UN than usual, attendance by the public dropped off considerably. From the financial point of view, UN tours probably will continue to lose money.

Although the number of visitors had declined 13 per cent in two years, the world organization intends to hire only 10 per cent fewer guides when 2-year contracts are issued in March, and admits much of that economy will be eliminated by higher salaries and other costs.

The reason given by Maurice Liu, chief of UN public services, for the declining interest by visitors is the condition of the American economy during the last two years. That may have been a contributing factor, but perhaps it has not occurred to the gentlemen in the glass tower their own actions and inactions have had something to do with it.

Coffee Revaluation

Coffee may not be the largest in dollar volume of United States imports, but it must rank as number one in popular usage. The familiar brew may become a bit more precious as a result of the three-day meeting of 11 Latin American coffee-producing countries in Mexico City.

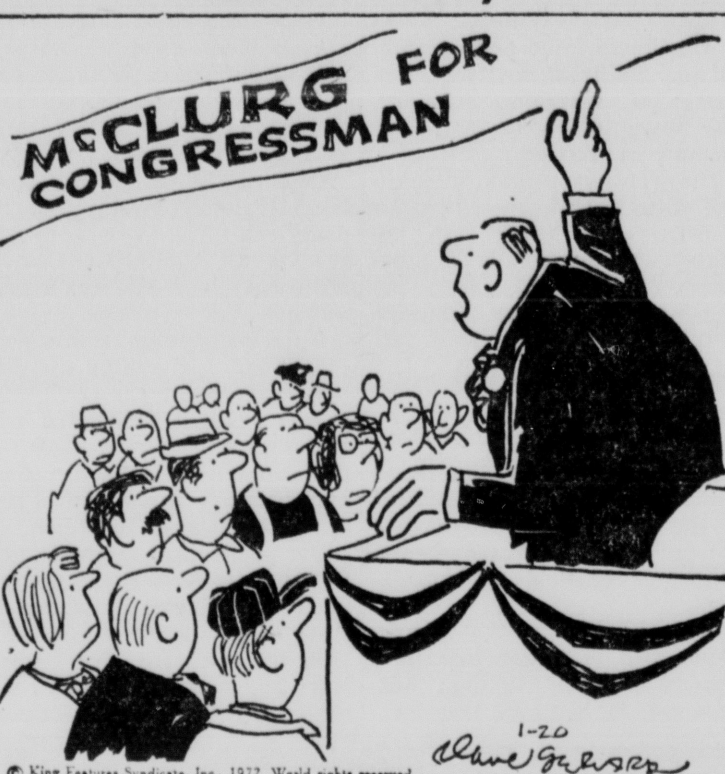

This time the discontent expressed by the coffee producers had nothing to do with droughts or surpluses, good harvests or bad. The subject was monetary, and the representatives agreed they have come out on the short end of the stick on the devaluation of the dollar.

The U.S. dollar is the medium of exchange recognized by the world coffee convention, which is the mechanism controlling the trading flow and the price of the bean. If the coffee producers are successful in forcing their demands for higher prices, as they generally are, a precedent will be set for other traders.

This will affect prices of many other commodities generally considered essential by consumers.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) If you don't schedule your time wisely today you will get little done where personal or business matters are concerned. Concentrate and you can come to right decisions. Be alert.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Good pals will assist you in gaining a worthwhile personal aim, but forget an adviser whose interests are self-serving. Don't bring matter into the picture and avoid trouble.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

by LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

Since my daughter started kindergarten I have been worried about her co-ordination.

Now that she is in the first grade, she tends to write backward. The letters B, D, and S are reversed. She writes words like "saw" as "was."

Her teachers have never shown concern for this. Are they overlooking a problem that may come up in the future?

Mrs. D. S., Conn.
Dear Mrs. S.: It is most unusual for teachers to disregard such an obvious visual disturbance. Since you are aware of it, however, the responsibility is yours to immediately find out the reason.

The problem is not one that time alone can remedy. First, it is essential that a complete medical examination be done, including neurological studies and brain wave tests, to rule out any organic disease.

Then it is imperative that an eye examination be made to rule out a complicated condition known as "dyslexia." This disorder is characterized by visual confusion that causes the person to transpose letters, exactly as you describe.

There are now very highly trained specialists who devote themselves to retraining children with dyslexia. The results are often spectacular, but do take a tremendous amount of concentrated re-education.

Most major hospitals and universities have a department that devotes itself specifically to the many forms of dyslexia. Far too many young people have been classed as poor or inadequate students when their visual problems were interfering with their reading and learning capabilities.

It is an interesting but yet unexplained phenomenon that boys are affected with dyslexia by more than four to one over girls.

The earlier the condition is recognized and the earlier intensive treatment is started, the better are the chances that future educational problems can be avoided.

I would like to know if cranberry juice is particularly beneficial to the bladder, as a friend insists.

Does it have any specific, useful qualities?
Mrs. H. J., Ohio
Dear Mrs. J.: Cranberries grow on the plant oxycoccus (this is not a bacteria). The berry contains benzoic acid and tends to increase the acidity of the urine.

Plums and prunes do the same thing.

It is possible that this change in acidity may be beneficial to some people, though this is speculative. Probably the fluid itself is of value in flushing out the bladder.

Many such ideas circulate without true scientific substantiation.

Taxicab Drivers Get Worthless OK

HARBOR SPRINGS, Mich. (AP) — The City Council has voted to lower from 21 to 18 the allowable age for taxicab drivers in the city.

However, there are no taxicabs in Harbor Springs.

Nixon Sets Twin-Pronged State Of Union Message

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, facing a Democratic-controlled Congress in this election year, has invented a new State of the Union formula: Hit 'em with both barrels.

For the first time, Nixon has decided to report twice this year on his plans for dealing with the multiple and mounting problems of the 50 states:

—First, he will make an in-person State of the Union address to a Senate-House session at 12:30 p.m. Thursday. The best administration guess is that he will talk about 30 minutes to Congress and a nationwide television-radio audience.

—Second, he will place on each congressman's desk a written State of the Union message, far exceeding in volume anything he could attempt to read in person. White House sources say it will be a bulky document.

Using this one-two formula, Nixon hopes to capture the live TV-radio audience plus reruns on the widely watched evening TV news programs and, at the same time, leave plenty of fodder for reporters writing for newspapers and weekly magazines.

Ronald L. Ziegler, Nixon's press secretary, said the chief executive "wanted to include a good bit of detail" in the traditional January launching-pad message that could not be encompassed in a speech to Congress.

The intellectual dishonesty of his principal rivals is indeed breathtaking. George McGovern can appear on a given evening before B'nai B'rith or some such group and roundly declare: "America must do whatever is necessary to ensure the survival of Israel." Then, the next day, before a liberal audience, you find him advocating vast cuts in the military budget — his figure, these days, is twenty billion dollars. What, as a matter of fact, is he going to defend Israel with, let alone the United States?

The inconsistency here is so gross that McGovern's pose as a man of openness and candor must have been consciously designed to distract attention from it.

But McGovern's flagrancy is by no means unique. Here is Eugene McCarthy: "I think we have a moral commitment to support Israel and must maintain it." With what, he doesn't say. John Lindsay and Hubert Humphrey echo the sentiment. Edmund "Honest Abe" Muskie comes on in exactly the same way: "The security of Israel is closely related to the security of the United States."

This last proposition may in fact be objectively true. But if it is, why then does Muskie vie with his rivals on Pentagon budget-cutting?

It is at exactly this point that Henry Jackson comes in. "How the hell are you going to defend Israel," he asks, "if you're also cutting the Sixth Fleet to ribbons? It just doesn't jell."

And Jackson is obviously, glaringly correct. He has put his finger on the bogus element in the public position of all his rivals. And their performance is a wonder to behold.

Behind their obvious contradictions and bogus rhetoric, what Muskie, McGovern, Lindsay and Humphrey are doing, quite plainly, is competing for the honorific label of "liberal" in places like Washington, New York and Boston. Each of them needs support in those places, and the "liberal" label is important. In this electoral season, the most "liberal" candidate is the one who dramatizes himself as the loudest opponent of national defense. That each of them flatly contradicts himself where Israel is concerned apparently passes unnoticed.

The hilarious part of all this is that Muskie has apparently designed his Presidential campaign around the theme that he is a uniquely candid and forthright candidate. He is attempting to establish a dramatic contrast between his New England integrity and the trickery of that fellow in the White House. His stump speech, for example, is beginning to crystallize. He is asking his audiences to "find out if this guy in front of you is a believable candidate, if you really trust what he says . . . Do this not for me but for the country, because people have to believe in their leaders."

Who knows? Muskie and the others may continue to get away with this kind of thing. Perhaps, indeed, they plan to develop a missile, an interceptor and a tank which functions in the desert but not, by no means not, in a jungle environment. In any case, their set of disconnected and contradictory attitudes apparently suits the mood of the moment and qualifies them for the "liberal" label.

So far, Senator Henry Jackson has been about the only one loudly yelling "fraud." He is correct. And, though over the years he has been a down-the-line liberal on most issues, his accuracy here has earned him the designation of the "conservative" Democratic candidate. Mencken, thou shouldst be living at this hour.

Smells A Fraud

By JEFFERY HART

Senator Henry M. Jackson will not make it to the Democratic nomination, much less to the Presidency, but, in refreshing contrast to his Democratic rivals, he is at least honest on the issues.

The intellectual dishonesty of his principal rivals is indeed breathtaking. term policy for $6.61 a thousand. "We expect he will live 32 more years or that half his group will be alive at the end of 32 years," Brandon says. The expectation of death in the next year is only 3.53 per thousand.

If he has hypertension, however, he might be rated up to 200 per cent of expected mortality, the probability of death would be 7 in one thousand, and he would have to pay $6.65 on top of the regular $6.61 rate.

Hypertension is correctable, however. The insured goes on a diet. He takes medication. His blood pressure returns to normal, and so, one year later he asks for a review of his case.

It is entirely possible that as much as 35 per cent of the extra premium might be eliminated in one year. On a $20,000 policy that would mean a saving of $46.55. On an ordinary life policy, which is more expensive, the saving would be proportionately larger.

Good agents generally are aware of their responsibilities, but sometimes they and the individual are negligent. Families move and lose contact with the agent. Agents die. And sometimes the facts are buried in company files.

Those people paying extra premiums because of being rated underweight 40 years ago actually are discovered in the files from time to time. And despite computers, formerly obese policyholders likely will be paying extra rates 40 years from now.

Insurance today is often written on lives that once may have been considered uninsurable. In fact, says Brandon, only 2.4 per cent of all applicants at his company are turned down.

"Anybody still living can be insured if he is willing to pay the premium," says Brandon.

Charges could be reduced on many rated policies if the agent seeks reconsideration, which usually is offered after one, two, three, five or ten years.

A 40-year-old man in good health is able to buy a standard

NEW YORK (AP) — As every husband comes to realize, no man knows a woman until he marries her.

Even then, as the slow years muller their way to eternity, he is never really certain he comprehends her nature fully. He is sure, however, of certain changes in her.

For example, when they first met she loved to go on long walks with him, and she'd half-trot at his side for miles without wearying. Today she couldn't even walk down the altar with him again without yelping for a taxi.

During their courtship, she ransacked the cookbooks to find new recipes to try on him, and he'd put on an apron and help do the dishes. But it has been years now since he has done anything in the kitchen, and he complains that her cuisine specialty is "four-day hash."

"You tell me who you want for president," she said in earlier years, "and I'll vote for him. I don't know anything about politics." What happened? Well, she thinks now that she knows everything about politics. Whoever her husband is for, she votes against—and insists on giving reasons.

He told her he didn't want any children for fear that having them might hurt her. She said that no, they must have two children—to be named Jack and Jill. She ended up having five children.

Marriage, she told him firmly before the ceremony, mustn't be the end of her career. She wanted to "be somebody" and make the most of her talents. Her talent, it turned out, was cheerleading. For the last 25 years she has been trying to pep talk him into working harder and making more money.

There was a time when she prided herself on washing her own tresses and making her own dresses. Now her annual bills for coiffure and clothes would pay for a paint job on the Statue of Liberty. But she still shows up for breakfast looking as if she had spent the night whirling around in a laundry machine.

Wasn't she gay and lovely, the day they came back from their honeymoon and raced up three flights of stairs to their 1½-room love nest in the slums? Oh, well, don't all such days pass? Now she mopes because the cathedral living room in their 10-room house in the suburbs looks so gauche.

Their quarrels once were as brief and impromptu as summer storms, he recalls wistfully, and were followed immediately by loving and laughing. But now, he feels, "she starts jabbing at me on Friday night and is still at it on Monday morning." They are weekend horrors.

She was so hopeful and cheerful as they took the first steps on their long path together. Now she has decided that her future has become her past.

Dumbly her husband wonders what he did wrong to make things turn out this way.

Nothing at all. The girl of his dreams merely married him. Time, the chief villain of our lives, did the rest.

UN Loses Appeal

The United Nations, which has a penchant for not doing anything right, hit a new plateau in 1971. It even lost money on its guided tours for the first time.

Tourists at the UN's New York buildings have been declining since 1969, when more than one million visitors were recorded. In 1970, the number was down to 938,000 and last year it dropped to 874,000.

The 1971 figure is particularly significant because of the widespread publicity surrounding the China question and the debate over the India-Pakistan war.

Thus, in a year when greater public attention was focused on the UN than usual, attendance by the public dropped off considerably. From the financial point of view, UN tours probably will continue to lose money.

Although the number of visitors had declined 13 per cent in two years, the world organization intends to hire only 10 per cent fewer guides when 2-year contracts are issued in March, and admits much of that economy will be eliminated by higher salaries and other costs.

The reason given by Maurice Liu, chief of UN public services, for the declining interest by visitors is the condition of the American economy during the last two years. That may have been a contributing factor, but perhaps it has not occurred to the gentlemen in the glass tower their own actions and inactions have had something to do with it.

Coffee Revaluation

Coffee may not be the largest in dollar volume of United States imports, but it must rank as number one in popular usage. The familiar brew may become a bit more precious as a result of the three-day meeting of 11 Latin American coffee-producing countries in Mexico City.

This time the discontent expressed by the coffee producers had nothing to do with droughts or surpluses, good harvests or bad. The subject was monetary, and the representatives agreed they have come out on the short end of the stick on the devaluation of the dollar.

The U.S. dollar is the medium of exchange recognized by the world coffee convention, which is the mechanism controlling the trading flow and the price of the bean. If the coffee producers are successful in forcing their demands for higher prices, as they generally are, a precedent will be set for other traders.

This will affect prices of many other commodities generally considered essential by consumers.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

by LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

Since my daughter started kindergarten I have been worried about her co-ordination.

Now that she is in the first grade, she tends to write backward. The letters B, D, and S are reversed. She writes words like "saw" as "was."

Her teachers have never shown concern for this. Are they overlooking a problem that may come up in the future?

Mrs. D. S., Conn.
Dear Mrs. S.: It is most unusual for teachers to disregard such an obvious visual disturbance. Since you are aware of it, however, the responsibility is yours to immediately find out the reason.

The problem is not one that time alone can remedy. First, it is essential that a complete medical examination be done, including neurological studies and brain wave tests, to rule out any organic disease.

Then it is imperative that an eye examination be made to rule out a complicated condition known as "dyslexia." This disorder is characterized by visual confusion that causes the person to transpose letters, exactly as you describe.

There are now very highly trained specialists who devote themselves to retraining children with dyslexia. The results are often spectacular, but do take a tremendous amount of concentrated re-education.

Most major hospitals and universities have a department that devotes itself specifically to the many forms of dyslexia. Far too many young people have been classed as poor or inadequate students when their visual problems were interfering with their reading and learning capabilities.

It is an interesting but yet unexplained phenomenon that boys are affected with dyslexia by more than four to one over girls.

The earlier the condition is recognized and the earlier intensive treatment is started, the better are the chances that future educational problems can be avoided.

I would like to know if cranberry juice is particularly beneficial to the bladder, as a friend insists.

Does it have any specific, useful qualities?
Mrs. H. J., Ohio
Dear Mrs. J.: Cranberries grow on the plant oxycoccus (this is not a bacteria). The berry contains benzoic acid and tends to increase the acidity of the urine.

Plums and prunes do the same thing. It is possible that this change in acidity may be beneficial to some people, though this is speculative. Probably the fluid itself is of value in flushing out the bladder.

Many such ideas circulate without true scientific substantiation.

Nixon Sets Twin-Pronged State Of Union Message

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, facing a Democratic-controlled Congress in this election year, has invented a new State of the Union formula: Hit 'em with both barrels.

For the first time, Nixon has decided to report twice this year on his plans for dealing with the multiple and mounting problems of the 50 states.

—First, he will make an in-person State of the Union address to a Senate-House session at 12:30 p.m. Thursday. The best administration guess is that he will talk about 30 minutes to Congress and a nationwide television-radio audience.

—Second, he will place on each congressman's desk a written State of the Union message, far exceeding in volume anything he could attempt to read in person. White House sources say it will be a bulky document.

Using this one-two formula, Nixon hopes to capture the live TV-radio audience plus reruns on the widely watched evening TV news programs and, at the same time, leave plenty of fodder for reporters writing for newspapers and weekly magazines.

Ronald L. Ziegler, Nixon's press secretary, said the chief executive "wanted to include a good bit of detail" in the traditional January launching-pad message that could not be encompassed in a speech to Congress.

The press secretary perhaps hinted at an added reason for the more lengthy message when, referring to the agenda of the opposition-controlled Congress, he said, "It was felt that there is a good deal of unfinished business."

In this connection, he added that Nixon "wanted to go into detail."

The two-stage State of the Union message could be a reply to some critics who contend presidents have delivered vaguely phrased addresses without ever coming to grips with details.

Then, most often, there has followed a succession of special messages spotlighting the chief executive's proposed remedies for particular problems.

Smells A Fraud

By JEFFERY HART

the honorific label of "liberal" in places like Washington, New York and Boston. Each of them needs support in those places, and the "liberal" label is important. In this electoral season, the most "liberal" candidate is the one who dramatizes himself as the loudest opponent of national defense. That each of them flatly contradicts himself where Israel is concerned apparently passes unnoticed.

The hilarious part of all this is that Muskie has apparently designed his Presidential campaign around the theme that he is a uniquely candid and forthright candidate. He is attempting to establish a dramatic contrast between his New England integrity and the trickery of that fellow in the White House. His stump speech, for example, is beginning to crystallize. He is asking his audiences to "find out if this guy in front of you is a believable candidate, if you really trust what he says . . . Do this not for me but for the country, because people have to believe in their leaders."

Who knows? Muskie and the others may continue to get away with this kind of thing. Perhaps, indeed, they plan to develop a missile, an intercontinental tank which functions in the desert but not, by no means not, in a jungle environment. In any case, their set of disconnected and contradictory attitudes apparently suits the mood of the moment and qualifies them for the "liberal" label.

So far, Senator Henry Jackson has been about the only one loudly yelling "fraud." He is correct. And, though over the years he has been a down-the-line liberal on most issues, his accuracy here has earned him the designation of the "conservative" Democratic candidate. Mencken, thou shouldst be living at this hour.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Thousands of Americans may be needlessly paying high insurance rates because they adhere to the custom of putting their policies away in a safe-deposit vault, never to be looked at in years.

Forty years ago, for example, some Americans were "rated up" to higher annual premiums because they were underweight. It was the midst of the Great Depression and many people had poor diets.

Chances are high that the skinny young man or woman of 1932 has gained considerable poundage since. But, because the insured or the agent forgot, the high premium may still continue.

The situation today is likely to be reversed. "Obesity is the big disease today," says Dr. Kenneth Brandon, Aetna Life & Casualty. But will those who diet away the fat forget to get their premiums reduced? It's likely.

Insurance today is often written on lives that once may have been considered uninsurable. In fact, says Brandon, only 2.4 per cent of all applicants at his company are turned down.

"Anybody still living can be insured if he is willing to pay the premium," says Brandon. Charges could be reduced on many rated policies if the agent seeks reconsideration, which usually is offered after one, two, three, five or ten years.

A 40-year-old man in good health is able to buy a standard term policy for $6.61 a thousand. "We expect he will live 32 more years or that half his group will be alive at the end of 32 years," Brandon says. The expectation of death in the next year is only 3.53 per thousand.

If he has hypertension, however, he might be rated up to 200 per cent of expected mortality, the probability of death would be 7 in one thousand, and he would have to pay $6.65 on top of the regular $6.61 rate.

Hypertension is correctable, however. The insured goes on a diet. He takes medication. His blood pressure returns to normal, and so, one year later he asks for a review of his case.

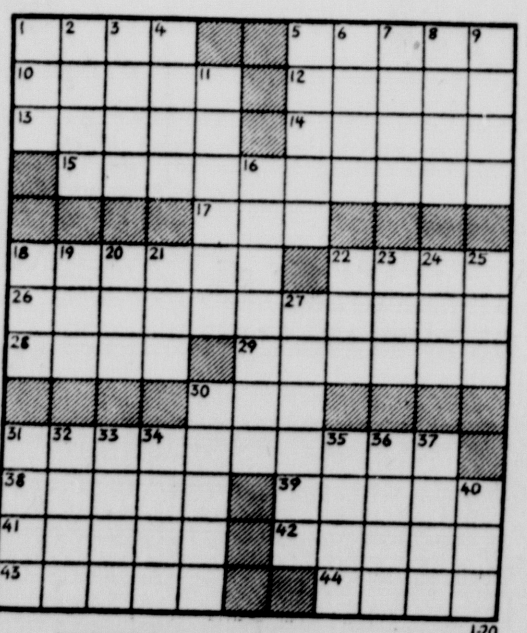

It is entirely possible that as much as 35 per cent of the extra premium might be eliminated in one year. On a $20,000 policy that would mean a saving of $46.55. On an ordinary life policy, which is more expensive, the saving would be proportionately larger.

Good agents generally are aware of their responsibilities, but sometimes they and the individual are negligent. Families move and lose contact with the agent. Agents die. And sometimes the facts are buried in company files.

Those people paying extra premiums because of being rated underweight 40 years ago actually are discovered in the files from time to time. And despite computers, formerly obese policyholders likely will be paying extra rates 40 years from now.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Cost Of Moving From A Dream Castle

DEAR ABBY: Your comment to "Lady Dreamer" reminded me of a cute saying I'd like to share.

"The neurotic BUILDS dream castles. The psychotic LIVES in them, and the psychiatrist collects the rent."

MRS. L.P. P.: A competent psychiatrist doesn't "collect the rent" for anyone's dream castle. Instead he helps his patients find a dwelling he can actually LIVE in. And his fee is more appropriately the cost of living.

DEAR ABBY: We have a very sturdy, selfish son in law who is married to our only child.

She is a wonderful girl and we love her very much, but we just can't understand him. He treats our daughter all right as far as we can see, but he treats us terribly.

When we invite the two of them for supper, she usually comes alone. She's embarrassed, but confesses she couldn't get him to come with her. When he does come, he eats fast and wants to run away right after the meal is over.

U.S. Weather Turns Mixed

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Arctic air dominated the northern part of the nation today while unseasonably mild weather was the rule from the lower Ohio Valley to the western and central Gulf Coast states.

Snow and subzero cold persisted in the northern tier of states from Montana to Minnesota. Seasonably cold temperatures chilled the region from the Great Lakes to the Northeast.

Freezing rain or sleet iced roads in parts of the Midwest south of the cold-air mass.

Strong winds off the Pacific blew cold rain inland over the Northwest.

The warm weather in the South was spotted with showers and thunderstorms. Nearly an inch of rain soaked several areas.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 18 below zero in Cut Bank, Mont., to 72 at Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Japanese Trade Curbs To Be Eased

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Japanese trade restrictions gradually will be eased "quite a lot," says Toshio Nakamura, president of one of Japan's largest banks.

The liberalization will have to be gradual because Japan's economy is heavily dependent on exports and a quick reduction would severely damage it, said the President of Mitsubishi Bank Ltd., of Tokyo.

We have given them a lot of financial help. We bought them a nice little house and are helping them furnish it. We even bought them a second car.

I was in the hospital for two weeks and he never came to see me once. He didn't even send me a card!

Would it be childish for us to treat him like he treats us? I mean stop all financial help? I wouldn't hurt my daughter, but someone should teach this fellow a lesson.

HURT DEAR HELP: Any financial help you gave him was undoubtedly more for your daughter's sake than his. Don't reward his indifference and rudeness with generosity, but be careful how you "teach him a lesson" or your daughter might wind up paying for the lesson.

DEAR ABBY: I am a school teacher. The other day another teacher told me in the presence of the school nurse and some office secretaries, that she had seen a woman shoplift a purse in a local store.

I asked her if she reported the incident to anyone, and she said she had not. I then told her that I thought she had an obligation to report it.

A discussion followed. One person agreed with me. Another said, "If that woman was stealing, she must have been very hard up and needed to steal so it would have been unkind to report her."

Another said, "I'd have minded my own business because if I made such an accusation and wasn't able to prove it, I could be sued for slander."

Now I'd like your opinion, Abby.

AN EX ANGELENO DEAR EX: I would have reported it. To quote Edmund Burke (again), "All that is necessary for evil to triumph is for good men to do nothing."

DEAR ABBY: The letter from "Tall Boy" who was tired of having people ask him, "How's the weather up there," hit home with me because I, too, was tall in school. Being a girl it was even worse.

When kids would ask me how the weather was up there, I'd give them the answer my Dad suggested: Why don't you grow up and find out?"

Toledo Youth Found Slain By Zoo Bears

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Police say they are puzzled about why a Toledo youth killed by polar bears at the city zoo happened to be in the moat.

Lt. Kenneth Foss said there was no indication that Richard Hale, 19, had met with foul play elsewhere and been thrown into the pit.

Hale's badly-mutilated body was pulled Wednesday from the moat, which is inhabited by four 800-pound bears.

Zoo Director Philip Skeldon said the body was "pretty well eaten all up" from the waist down. "The legs and everything was just gone. It was a gruesome sight."

Officials concluded the youth was alive when he dropped into the moat, which separates the bears from spectators. Coroner Harry Mignerey said Hale "was killed by the bears."

Mignerey said the body was being checked for evidence of narcotics.

Skeldon said that in order to get into the pit the youth would have had to climb a guard rail, cross six feet of lawn and then drop 14 feet into the moat.

"My guess is it was suicide," said Skeldon, who noted it was the first human death ever caused by animals at the zoo.

Police said they were unable to trace Hale's movements after 5 p.m. Tuesday. They said he left a friend's apartment about a block from the zoo at that time.

Funeral services for Hale, a 1970 graduate of Toledo Rogers High School, will be held here Friday afternoon, with burial in suburban Dowling.

Miss Sharon Kay Stewart Bride Of Paul E. Vance

MRS. PAUL EDWARD VANCE

The altar of the Jefferson Church of Christ in Christian Union was adorned with red and white poinsettias and Christmas greenery for the wedding of Miss Sharon Kay Stewart and Mr. Paul Edward Vance.

The Rev. R. L. Heimbach officiated the double ring ceremony 6:30 p.m. Dec. 11 for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward O. Stewart, Route 1, Stoutsville, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Vance, 500 E. Main St., Circleville.

Mrs. Glenn Smith, organist and Mr. and Mrs. J. Born, vocalists, presented a program of nuptial selections preceding the ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She selected for her wedding day a floor length gown of white organza in a Van Eyck silhouette design with puffed full length sleeves. The beribboned Venice lace down the entire front of the gown was repeated at the wrists and the wattleau chapel length train sweeping softly from the back of the skirt. A face framing arrangement of organza petals and lace accented with pearls and crystals held her fingertip veil of illusion. She carried a bouquet of red and white carnations with holly and a shower of white satin streamers tied in lover's knots.

Miss Angela Stewart was maid of honor for her sister. She was in a formal length gown of moss green with short puffed sleeves, high neckline and lace trim at the empire waist. Her headpiece was a cluster of velvet flowers and bows holding a brief pouf veil. She carried a bouquet of white pompon mums, red carnations and holly.

Bridesmaid was Miss Beverly Vance, sister of the bridegroom. She was dressed as the honor attendant and carried a matching bouquet.

Miss Sherry Stewart, sister of the bride, was flower girl in a mint green floor length gown styled with short puffed sleeves and lace trimming at the waistline. She carried a wicker basket of rose petals.

Mr. Curtis Vance, brother of the groom, performed the duties of best man. Ushers were Mr. Clifford Vance Jr., a brother, and Mr. Noel Crawford.

Mrs. Stewart was attired in a princess style dress of green and white brocade enhanced with rhinestone buttons and black accessories. Mrs. Vance

Sneek-A-Peek

By Pickaway County Library Staff

Everyone knows the fairy tales of the Brothers Grimm and of Hans Christian Andersen. But there are, in the library, many many other books of fairy tales. They are not so well known perhaps, and they are often neglected by parents and teachers who are searching for fresh material. In today's column some of them are discussed.

Virginia Haviland collected fairy tales from many countries. These were published in separate volumes, and each was illustrated by a top-notch artist. In all cases, the pictures reflect the culture of the stories' background.

"Favorite Fairy Tales Told in France" includes "Puss in Boots" and "The Twelve Dancing Princesses." It was illustrated by Roger Duvoisin with dainty, formalized pictures of elaborate castles and elegantly coiffed ladies.

Leonard Wiesgard's pictures for "Told in Norway" are earthier, with sturdy characters in peasant dress.

English humor, droll and comical, is reflected by Bettina in her amusing illustrations for "Tom Thumb," "Molly Whuppie," and "Cap o' Rushes."

"Patrick O'Donnel and the Leprechaun" is perhaps the funniest of the Irish stories. Arthur Markova managed to convey the humor of Erin in his pictures for this and "Billy Beg and the Bull" and others in this collection.

Doll-like figures people the pages of "Told in Germany," illustrated by Susanna Suba. These are all translations from the Grimms.

Leaving Miss Haviland's series, we find "Martin Pippin in the Apple Orchard" has something of the format of "The Arabian Nights." That is, an involved introduction leads to the telling of tale after tale. Written by Eleanor Farjeon, the stories are full of sunshine and gaiety. They have a dreamy quality which makes them extremely satisfying. Somehow Miss Farjeon has managed to combine poetry, music, and wonder in these twenty episodes.

In an epilogue to "The Golden Phoenix," Marius Barbeau traces folklore in its travels about the world. His stories, surely, are descendants of much older versions from far-off lands. In their present form, they come from Canada, through the rich culture of our friends to our north. Here are "The Fairy Quite Contrary" and "Scurvyhead," and "The Sly Thief of Valenciennes."

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWERY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "The Kopycats," which ABC proposes to use in its new Wednesday night "Comedy Hour" almost every other week, has a very simple format. For 60 minutes, a sextet of skilled impressionists mimics famous people, past and present.

The idea was tried by the same producers for a couple of shows on NBC's "Music Hall" last season. Whether it is strong enough or can produce enough variety to survive through a half dozen shows is something else.

In the premiere this week, Rich Little, George Kirby, Marilyn Michaels, Frank Gorshin, Charlie Callas and Joe Baker impersonated just about all the standard characters—Jimmy Stewart, Bogart, Cagney, Boris Karloff, Burt Lancaster, Kirk Douglas, W. C. Fields. Actually, the only familiar impressions left are Edward G. Robinson and Ed Sullivan.

Some of the impressions were better than others. Rich Little turned in excellent caricatures of President Nixon, George Burns and Raymond Burr, but his Bogart and W. C. Fields needed work. Kirby was funny doing Mae West and even more amusing imitating Flip Wilson as Geraldine.

The only woman in the regulars is Marilyn Michaels who in one number ran through the styles of seven girl singers, from Rosemary Clooney to Diana Ross, and caught each of them. Her impressions of Barbara Streisand and Judy Garland were uncanny — she not only had their voices but their body movements and hands.

The series, taped in England, called in a couple of guest stars for obscure reasons. Robert Young didn't even try to imitate anybody and Steve Lawrence demonstrated that he sings much better than he impersonates John Garfield.

An hour of "The Kopycats" may be fun occasionally but a steady diet might be a bit of a bore.

The program was followed by

"The Persuaders," now in a new time period. Either the show looks better early on days or it has shaken down a bit since the beginning of the season.

The series is a sort of comedy spin-off on the James Bond theme, and follows the weekly adventures of a Brooklyn tough guy—Tony Curtis—and a British lord—Roger Moore—as they save the empire and rescue maidens, but mostly exchange jaunty not-very-funny wisecracks and trade punches with villains.

This week they were breaking up a Russian spy ring. The plot was as preposterous as usual but there was some rather amusing dialogue.

5th Person Dies In Home Blaze West Of Celina

CELINA, Ohio (AP) — A fifth member of a Mercer County family died Wednesday as the result of a farmhouse fire believed caused by a faulty fuel oil heater explosion.

Richard Lunt, 32, died Wednesday afternoon in Lima St. Rita Hospital.

His wife, Shirley, 30, and three of their children, Christine, 10, Jennifer, 5, and Jeffrey, 2, died in the fire early Wednesday.

Another daughter, Sheryl, 12, was in fair condition at the hospital. Firemen said the father saved her life by throwing her out of a second-floor window.

Before he died, Lunt reportedly told Coroner Donald Fox that there was an explosion in the house and that the fire spread rapidly.

Pollution Pointers From Washington

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — A third grader worried about pollution asked President Nixon what she could do about it. And she's carrying the President's reply in her pocket—the proudest little girl on her block.

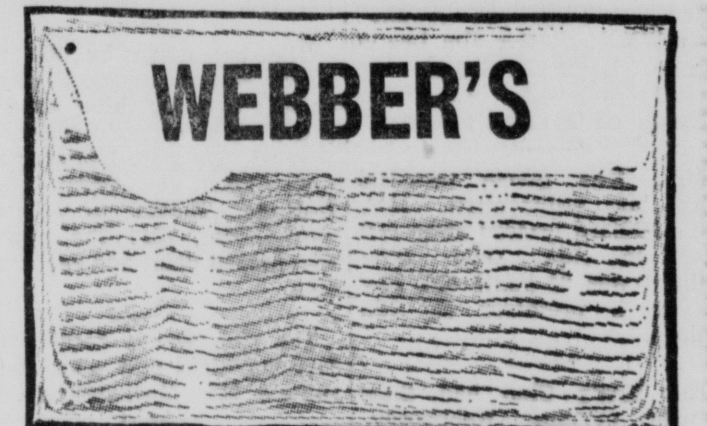

The reply to a letter from Gayle Ann Tucker, a 9-year-old pupil at Bradley Elementary School, came on White House stationery.

It said in part: "Simply in setting a personal example you can help control pollution of our lands. In addition you can join the federal, state and local agencies which are active in the area in environmental quality."

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Record sales and earnings for 1971 were reported Tuesday by Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp.

The board reported consolidated net sales for the year ending Dec. 31, were $536.7 million, compared to $487 million in 1970. Net earnings were $25.2 million, or $1.72 per share, compared to $20.6 million, or $1.41 per share, in 1970.

Sneek-A-Peek

By Pickaway County Library Staff

Everyone knows the fairy tales of the Brothers Grimm and Hans Christian Anderson. But there are, in the library, many many other books of fairy tales. They are not so well known perhaps, and they are often neglected by parents and teachers who are searching for fresh material. In today's column some of them are discussed.

Virginia Haviland collected fairy tales from many countries. These were published in separate volumes, and each was illustrated by a top-notch artist. In all cases, the pictures reflect the culture of the stories' background.

"Favorite Fairy Tales Told in France" includes "Puss in Boots" and "The Twelve Dancing Princesses." It was illustrated by Roger Duvoisin with dainty, formalized pictures of elaborate castles and elegantly coiffed ladies.

Leonard Wiesgard's pictures for "Told in Norway" are earthier, with sturdy characters in peasant dress.

English humor, droll and comical, is reflected by Bettina in her amusing illustrations for "Tom Thumb," "Molly Whuppie," and "Cap o' Rushes."

"Patrick O'Donnell and the Leprechaun" is perhaps the funniest of the Irish stories. Arthur Markova managed to convey the fey humor of Erin in his pictures for this and "Billy Beg and the Bull" and others in this collection.

Doll-like figures people the pages of "Told in Germany," illustrated by Susanna Suba. These are all translations from the Grimms.

Leaving Miss Haviland's series, we find "Martin Pippin in the Apple Orchard" has something of the format of "The Arabian Nights." That is, an involved introduction leads to the telling of tale after tale. Written by Eleanor Farjeon, the stories are full of sunshine and gaiety. They have a dreamy quality which makes them extremely satisfying. Somehow Miss Farjeon has managed to combine poetry, music, and wonder in these twenty episodes.

In an epilogue to "The Golden Phoenix," Marius Barbeau traces folklore in its travels about the world. His stories, surely, are descendants of much older versions from far-off lands. In their present form, they come from Canada, through the rich culture of our friends to our north. Here are "The Fairy Quite Contrary" and "Scurvyhead" and "The Sly Thief of Valenciennes."

Views on Television

NEW YORK (AP) — "The Kopycats," which ABC proposes to use in its new Wednesday night "Comedy Hour" almost every other week, has a very simple format. For 60 minutes, a sextet of skilled impressionists mimics famous people, past and present.

The idea was tried by the same producers for a couple of shows on NBC's "Music Hall" last season. Whether it is strong enough or can produce enough variety to survive through a half dozen shows is something else.

In the premiere this week, Rich Little, George Kirby, Marilyn Michaels, Frank Gorshin, Charlie Callas and Joe Baker impersonated just about all the standard characters—Jimmy Stewart, Bogart, Cagney, Boris Karloff, Burt Lancaster, Kirk Douglas, W. C. Fields. Actually, the only familiar impressions left are Edward G. Robinson and Ed Sullivan.

Some of the impressions were better than others. Rich Little turned in excellent caricatures of President Nixon, George Burns and Raymond Burr, but his Bogart and W. C. Fields needed work. Kirby was funny doing Mae West and even more amusing imitating Flip Wilson as Geraldine.

The only woman in the regulars is Marilyn Michaels who in one number ran through the styles of seven girl singers, from Rosemary Clooney to Diana Ross, and caught each of them. Her impressions of Barbara Streisand and Judy Garland were uncanny — she not only had their voices but their body movements and hands.

The series, taped in England, called in a couple of guest stars for obscure reasons. Robert Young didn't even try to imitate anybody and Steve Lawrence demonstrated that he sings much better than he impersonates John Garfield.

An hour of "The Kopycats" may be fun occasionally but a steady diet might be a bit of a bore.

The program was followed by

"The Persuaders," now in a new time period. Either the show looks better early on days or it has shaken down a bit since the beginning of the season.

The series is a sort of comedy spin-off on the James Bond theme, and follows the weekly adventures of a Brooklyn tough guy—Tony Curtis—and a British lord—Roger Moore—as they save the empire and rescue maidens, but mostly exchange jaunty not-very-funny wisecracks and trade punches with villains.

This week they were breaking up a Russian spy ring. The plot was as preposterous as usual but there was some rather amusing dialogue.

5th Person Dies In Home Blaze West Of Celina

CELINA, Ohio (AP) — A fifth member of a Mercer County family died Wednesday as the result of a farmhouse fire believed caused by a faulty fuel oil heater explosion.

Richard Lunt, 32, died Wednesday afternoon in Lima St. Rita Hospital.

His wife, Shirley, 30, and three of their children, Christine, 10, Jennifer, 5, and Jeffrey, 2, died in the fire early Wednesday.

Another daughter, Sheryl, 12, was in fair condition at the hospital. Firemen said the father saved her life by throwing her out of a second-floor window.

Before he died, Lunt reportedly told Coroner Donald Fox that there was an explosion in the house and that the fire spread rapidly.

War-Weary Plane Gets Museum Slot

SAIGON (AP) — After 10 years of combat and more than 1,000 holes from enemy fire, Patches is being retired, a victim of the phaseout of American forces from Vietnam.

Although nearly 9,000 U.S. planes and helicopters have been lost in Indo China, the twin-engine C123 has survived with metal patches bandaging its battle wounds. Now it is destined for the Air Force Museum at Wright-Patterson Air Base in Ohio.

U.S. To Stay Out Of Cambodian Mess

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The United States will not get involved in Cambodia the way it has in Vietnam, a State Department official said here Tuesday.

Charles Whitehouse, deputy assistant secretary of state for East Asian and Pacific affairs, told a Cleveland Council on World Affairs forum, "We are not turning Cambodia into another Vietnam."

Patches started out in 1961 flying as low as 150 feet on defoliation missions, spraying chemicals to kill the foliage that gave the Viet Cong cover and to destroy food crops. Armor plate was installed around much of the cockpit to protect the crew against shrapnel, and the men wore bullet proof vests.

Late in 1969, Patches took on a new mission, malaria control, spraying insecticides around American bases. Now the Army is using helicopters for antimalaria spraying and Patches is waiting at the Phan Rang Air Base, on the central coast, for flight orders back to the United States.

Municipal Judge Robbery Victim

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Municipal Court Judge Andy Devine was robbed of $300 and his watch by a robber with a sawed-off rifle Tuesday night.

The judge was robbed while he walked to the garage of his home in Toledo's old west end.

"You realize I'm a judge of the municipal court," the judge told the robber.

"All the more reason I should shoot you," the robber replied before he fled.

The robber did not shoot.

Gross National Product Seen At $2 Trillion

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — The chief economist for the U.S. Chamber of Commerce said Tuesday the gross national product will hit $2 trillion by 1980.

Dr. Carl H. Madden, in Minneapolis to address a meeting of businessmen, said the remainder of the 1970s will bring "strong growth." He said that with an expected average inflation rate of 3.1 per cent during the first half of the decade and 3 per cent in the second half, much of the growth will be "real."

War-Wear Plane Gets Museum Slot

SAIGON (AP) — After 10 years of combat and more than 1,000 holes from enemy fire, Patches is being retired, a victim of the phaseout of American forces from Vietnam.

U.S. To Stay Out Of Cambodian Mess

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The United States will not get involved in Cambodia the way it has in Vietnam, a State Department official said here Tuesday.

Charles Whitehouse, deputy assistant secretary of state for East Asian and Pacific affairs, told a Cleveland Council on World Affairs forum, "We are not turning Cambodia into another Vietnam."

Although nearly 9,000 U.S. planes and helicopters have been lost in Indo China, the twin-engine C123 has survived its battle wounds. Now it is destined for the Air Force Museum at Wright-Patterson Air Base in Ohio.

Pilots can't recall that Patches ever lost a crewman, although four purple hearts are painted on the left side of the cockpit for four wounded men.

"It's just a tough old bird," says the plane's last pilot, Capt. Jack W. Greene, 28, of Spartanburg, S. C.

Patches started out in 1961 flying as low as 150 feet on defoliation missions, spraying chemicals to kill the foliage that gave the Viet Cong cover and to destroy food crops. Armor plate was installed around much of the cockpit to protect the crew against shrapnel, and the men wore bullet proof vests.

Late in 1969, Patches took on a new mission, malaria control, spraying insecticides around American bases. Now the Army is using helicopters for antimalaria spraying and Patches is waiting at the Phan Rang Air Base, on the central coast, for flight orders back to the United States.

Municipal Judge Robbery Victim

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Municipal Court Judge Andy Devine was robbed of $300 and his watch by a robber with a sawed-off rifle Tuesday night.

The judge was robbed while he walked to the garage of his home in Toledo's old west end.

"You realize I'm a judge of the municipal court," the judge told the robber.

"All the more reason I should shoot you," the robber replied before he fled.

The robber did not shoot.

Gross National Product Seen At $2 Trillion

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — The chief economist for the U.S. Chamber of Commerce said Tuesday the gross national product will hit $2 trillion by 1980.

Dr. Carl H. Madden, in Minneapolis to address a meeting of businessmen, said the remainder of the 1970s will bring "strong growth." He said that with an expected average inflation rate of 3.1 per cent during the first half of the decade and 3 per cent in the second half, much of the growth will be "real."

Cuba Political Whipping Boy For Nixon?

By KENNETH J. FREED Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — The standard administration explanation for the differing U.S. policies for Cuba and China is, as President Nixon stated it, that "Cuba is engaged in a constant program of belligerence toward the United States."

The difference regarding China, the President said recently, is that "at this particular time, we have some evidence, that the Chinese are now ready to talk about their role in Asia and our role in Asia."

But other reasons are outlined privately by some administration officials, reasons that more nearly mirror the reality of world politics and special U.S. interests.

This is almost self-evident as the Chinese continue their direct military and economic aid to North Vietnam, accompanied by continued verbal attacks on the U.S. role in Southeast Asia and Taiwan.

Whether or not Nixon chooses to call this "belligerence," it is clear he feels important national gains are to be achieved by seeking a diplomatic relaxation with Peking. It is equally clear he sees no percentage at this time in improving U.S. relations with Fidel Castro's government.

In fact, the President can point to his constant, strong opposition to an aggressive Communist regime in Cuba in an effort to ease the sting of conservative attacks on his new China policy.

Internationally, by snubbing Castro and playing up charges of Cuban revolutionary intent, Nixon is able to maintain leverage with Western Hemisphere nations and obtain their support on other issues.

Administration officials, in acknowledging these positions, add that Castro still is a threat to peace in Latin America and deserves the U.S. hostility. They say he has not changed his goals of sparking revolution throughout the hemisphere.

The officials deny any serious weakening of the anti-Castro stand taken years ago by the Organization of American States, which imposed mandatory sanctions against any diplomatic and economic dealings with Cuba.

Even the Soviet role in Cuba brings no alarm to administration officials who are convinced Moscow is not threatening U.S. strength in the area.

Ohio Lockheed Plant Faces Work Force Cuts In May

MARIETTA, Ga. (AP)—Production will be halted soon at Lockheed-Georgia Co. plants at Logan, Ohio, and four other locations because of declining work on the C5 Galaxy program, it was announced Wednesday.

L. O. Kitchen, company president, said C5 production will be phased out at the plants in Logan, Ohio, and Uniontown, Pa., in May and at Martinsburg, W.Va., in March.

He said the Lockheed plant at Chattanooga, Tenn., is being sold to Koehring Co., of Milwaukee, Wis.

All of the plants build subassemblies for the C5, the world's largest airplane. They are being closed, the announcement said, because the number of C5 aircraft under contract has been limited to 81 planes.

"Lockheed is aggressively reducing costs wherever possible by consolidating its work force and facilities as our work load declines," Kitchen said.

The shutdown will affect 120 employees at Logan, 287 at Chattanooga, 133 at Union and 132 at Martinsburg. Lockheed said it would help the C5 employees find other jobs.

At the peak of the C5 production, 371 were employed at Logan, 658 at Chattanooga, 236 at Uniontown and 266 at Martinsburg.

The announcement said employees throughout Lockheed-Georgia has dropped from 33,000 to 16,000 and is still declining.

The subassembly were opened as part of the largest subcontract and work dispersal program in history that spread work on the C5 into 45 states, the District of Columbia, Canada and the United Kingdom.

Approximately 62 per cent of the aircraft production program was subcontracted, and the reduction in C5 orders thus affects all of these areas, the company said.

The C5 is the most expensive airplane in history, costing about $60 million apiece. The last of the 81 Galaxies is scheduled to be delivered to the Air Force in February, 1973.

In an effort to help the ailing aircraft manufacturer, Congress voted last year to provide Lockheed with $250 million in government loans.

5 Americans Said Killed In Action

SAIGON (AP) — Five Americans were reported killed in action and 26 were reported wounded in the Indochina war during the second week of 1972, the U.S. Command said today in its weekly casualty summary. Eight Americans died from nonhostile causes.

The number of killed was about the weekly average for the past three months, and the number of wounded was about half the weekly average.

However, the number of South Vietnamese reported killed last week was the highest in a month, while the number of wounded was the highest in three months. Both increases apparently were due to a sharp increase in enemy attacks in the past 10 days.

The South Vietnamese command said 390 of its troops were killed and 819 were wounded.

The allied commands reported killing 1,034 enemy during the week, up from 800 the previous week.

The number of Americans missing or captured remained at 1,492.

The allied commands have now reported these total casualties for the war:

American—45,637 killed in action, 302,519 wounded, 10,047 dead from nonhostile causes.

South Vietnamese—138,476 killed in action, 299,728 wounded.

North Vietnamese and Viet Cong—791,509 killed.

Quell Outbreak In Rhodesia

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) —Police brought an African township of Salisbury under control before dawn today after thousands of rioting blacks stoned cars and shops and set fire to buildings and cars through the night.

"We managed to get the situation under control early this morning," a police spokesman said. "It continues to be quiet and we have taken down all roadblocks."

Police fired tear gas shells into the mobs to contain the rioting, but the spokesman refused to confirm reports that shots were fired and several arrests made.

Ireland Violence Claims 213th Victim

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Four gunmen killed a Protestant bus driver on his doorstep Tuesday night, apparently because he was to give evidence in a court case against rioters who hijacked a bus in Belfast several weeks ago.

The death of Sidney Agnew, 40, brought the fatality toll to 213 in 29 months of communal violence in Northern Ireland. He was the seventh person to die this year.

Police said one of Agnew's three children answered the door when the gunmen rang the bell. They asked for Agnew, and when he came to the door they struck him and then shot him. The gunmen also wounded Agnew's 81-year-old mother-in-law in the foot, but she was not in serious condition.

Cuba Political Whipping Boy For Nixon?

By KENNETH J. FREED
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The standard administration explanation for the differing U.S. policies for Cuba and China is, as President Nixon stated it, that "Cuba is engaged in a constant program of belligerence toward the United States."

The difference regarding China, the President said recently, is that "at this particular time, we have some evidence, that the Chinese are now ready to talk about their role in Asia and our role in Asia."

The officials deny any serious weakening of the anti-Castro stand taken years ago by the Organization of American States, which imposed mandatory sanctions against any diplomatic and economic dealings with Cuba.

Even the Soviet role in Cuba brings no alarm to administration officials who are convinced Moscow is not threatening U.S. strength in the area.

And they say relations between Russia and Cuba are not at their best, with Castro fighting any overwhelming Soviet influence on his government.

Thus, U.S. experts say, there is no reason for the United States to make any overtures aimed at driving a wedge between Moscow and Havana.

All in all, that attitude marks the general U.S. feeling about Cuba: The Castro government serves more purpose by being kept at arm's length. And, until Washington stands to gain, there will be no China-like moves toward conciliation with Cuba.

GOP Conservatives Hit Nixon

By GREGG HERRINGTON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The conservative wing of the Republican party has escalated its attack on President Nixon.

Charging administration defense policy is crippling the country's security, three men who contributed at least $1,000 to Nixon's 1968 campaign have broken ties with the White House and are urging thousands of other GOP donors to do likewise.

The trio has established the

NFO Elects 1972 Officers

The regular monthly meeting of the Pickaway County National Farmers Organization was held Tuesday evening at the Five Points Methodist Church.

Reports were given by John Diffendall, grain chairman; Joe Carle, meat chairman; and Bill Davis, dairy chairman.

An election of officers was held with the following persons elected to serve for the coming year: Don Conrad, Route 1, New Holland, president; James Hastings, Route 3, Orient, vice president; Mrs. Lawrence Carle, Route 2, Circleville, treasurer; and Mrs. William Davis, Route 1, Mt. Sterling, secretary.

Also elected were the members of the Meat Bargaining Committee: Vernon Gifford, Raymond Reiterman, Bill Winter, Glen Kerns, and Tom Musselman. Alternates also elected were Gene Beavers, Dale Smith and Jim Musselman.

The next meeting will be Feb. 15 at the Five Points Methodist Church. Dinner will be served at 7:15, with the business meeting at 8 p.m.

2 School Districts To Receive Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Cleveland School District will receive $100,000 and the McConnellsville, Ohio, district $30,000 under the revived federal right-to-read program, the government announced Wednesday.

U.S. Education Commissioner Sidney Marland Jr. said 68 school districts in 44 states would receive almost $4 million under the program, which has the objective of ending illiteracy in the United States by 1980.

National Committee of Republicans for Victory in '72 from which to attack Nixon and praise more conservative party office holders such as Rep. John M. Ashbrook of Ohio, who is challenging the President in the March 7 Republican primary in New Hampshire.

The men who formed the committee are Lawrence J. Meisel of St. Louis, Richard Harvey of Tyler, Tex., and Rolland A. Franzen of Boca Raton, Fla. All are believed to have longtime ties to conservative causes.

They charged in a letter, reportedly mailed to thousands of Republicans this week, that the President has failed to fulfill promises to maintain a military strategic superiority over the Soviet Union, fallen down on his pledge to restore fiscal integrity to the budget and made harmful concessions to Red China.

"President Nixon went on television to announce his proposed trip to our enemy, Peking," the letter stated, "and to announce wage and price controls, which he promised not to impose, but he has not alerted Americans to the catastrophe that faces us if we permit Russia to continue to pull farther ahead militarily."

Meisel, a former Missouri state Republican Finance Chairman and delegate to the GOP convention in 1964, refused in a telephone interview Wednesday to disclose how many copies of the letter were sent out. He indicated only that thousands had gone out and said of the accompanying request for contributions brings good results, approximately 400,000 mailings will be made.

Meisel, whose St. Louis home also serves as the committee's headquarters, said the mailing is going to known Republican contributors from all 50 states.

Although the letter does not urge support of Ashbrook, a copy of his Dec. 15 House speech attacking Nixon is enclosed with it.

"We're hoping to change administration policies in line with the promises made by Richard Nixon when he was a candidate," Meisel said.

Former Findlay Man Honored

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP) — The 10th annual Fort Findlay Award, created to honor former Findlay residents who have achieved outstanding success, was presented Wednesday to Leo Rosencrans, a Hollywood movie executive.

Rosencrans is vice president and head of the creative department of Jerry Fairbanks Productions. A member of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, he has been on the Oscar Award nominating committee for the past 15 years.

Rosencrans began his career in Findlay, where he wrote, produced and frequently acted in home talent musical revues and minstrel shows.

At Nixon's re-election headquarters in Washington a spokesman said he had not heard of the Meisel mailing but said "we hope that, down the road, Republicans of every viewpoint will eventually come back and support the nomination" of Nixon.

Meisel said he and Harvey established the committee last September and Franzen joined the effort in November.

Tigers Face Miami Trace, Westfall In Cage Battles

Circleville's Tigers face double action this week when they host Miami Trace in a crucial South Central Ohio League clash Friday night at the Mill St. gym and travel to Westfall Saturday night to take on the Mustangs in a county rivalry battle.

Trace is the current league leader with a 5-0 record, 6-5 overall, and holds a 68-59 decision over the Tigers in a contest played at Miami on Dec. 3.

Circleville, 3-2 in league play, and 6-3 overall, must down the Panthers if the Tigers are going to stay alive in the race for the league crown.

Greenfield currently holds the number two spot in the SCOL with a 4-1 mark and is sporting an overall record of 9-2.

It was a cold hand from the floor that hurt the Tigers in the first outing with Trace as the Tigers hit 23 of 74 from the floor for a cool 31 per cent.

After a loss to Greenfield, Circleville bounced back last week against Wilmington with a 52 per cent shooting average from the hardwood and a 79 per cent performance from the charity stripe. Another effort like this could be the undoing of the Panthers.

Once again the Tigers will be at a height disadvantage and will really have to pound the boards if they are going to contain the Panthers.

Trace will probably go with Pete Jones, 6-foot-1, and Jack Reno, 5-foot-9, at the guards, Kemmy Goodson, 6-foot-4, at center with Muff Jones, 6-foot-2, and Greg Stockwell, 6-foot-2, at the forwards.

Coach John Lawhorn and his Tigers will counter with the nonpareil Terry Morrison, 5-foot-9, at one guard spot and Glen Gillespie, 5-foot-9, and Greg Hoskins, 5-foot-11 sharing the other guard post.

Dan Graham, 6-foot-1, will man the center position with Don Valentine, 6-foot, and Dave Truex, 6-foot, working up front.

GOOD shooting and rebounding off a pattern offense has been the secret of Trace's success this season and the Tigers can expect to see more of the same Friday night.

Defensively the Panthers utilize a box and one and match-up zone to control the opposition's offensive effort.

A capacity crowd is expected and Mill St. gym should be bulging at the seams when the opening whistle sounds.

The reserve game will get underway at 6:30 p.m. with the Tigers, 3-2 in league action, going against the Panthers who are 5-0 in SCOL competition.

It should be another full house Saturday night when the Tigers invade the corral of Coach Jeff Bigam and the Mustangs.

Circleville owns an 84-62 decision over Westfall in an earlier confrontation but the Mustangs will be going all out in an effort to gain revenge.

WESTFALL has been having its problems this year and suffered another setback this week when Mike Peterson injured his knee and Tom Cook came down sick.

However, the Mustangs will throw everything in the book at Circleville in an effort to gain a victory.

Koufax, Berra, Wynn Are Elected To Hall Of Fame

NEW YORK (AP) — Election to Baseball's Hall of Fame surprised Sandy Koufax, excited Yogi Berra and interrupted Early Wynn's tomato-picking.

Wynn, a 300-game winner who had failed three times previously to be elected to the shrine that houses the sport's heroes, was notified of his election while picking tomatoes at his home in Nokomis, Fla., near Sarasota.

Wynn was grateful.

"I'd been hoping for it," he said, "but I didn't want to build up my hopes too high. It's like being placed up there on a pedestal, not like getting a gold watch for your longtime efforts. It's recognition I was waiting for for a long time."

But, said Wynn, he would have been happier if the honor had been bestowed when he first became eligible. "I don't think I'm as thrilled as I would have been if I had made it the first time," he said. "Naturally, I'm happy. So is my wife. We have had a long wait. I was disappointed the first year and disappointed the second year. The third year I just shrugged it off."

"I would have liked to have joined Stan Musial, Ted Williams and Walter Johnson as players who gained the honor the first year they were eligible."

Koufax did exactly that, becoming the ninth player to make it his first year of eligibility. Others who did it were Jackie Robinson, Bob Feller, Ty Cobb, Babe Ruth, Honus Wagner and Christy Mathewson.

Koufax was surprised by the honor, embellished by a record vote total.

"I'm a little surprised I got as many votes as I did," Koufax explained. "I didn't have as many good years as some others in the Hall and I thought that might count against me."

Koufax pitched for the Los Angeles Dodgers for 12 years before an arthritic elbow ended his career. But it's the last four that made him a Hall of Famer.

From 1963 to 1966 he had records of 25-5, 19-5, 26-8 and 27-9 with earned run averages of 1.88, 1.71, 2.04 and 1.73. He also pitched a non-hitter each year, including a perfect game in 1965.

And that made him, at 36, the youngest player ever to be elected.

"This is the biggest honor I've ever been given, not just in baseball, but in my life," said Koufax.

Berra was even more excited.

"My fans and friends were really pulling for me," said Berra, who missed out by just 23 votes last year when he was eligible for the first time. "My kids are happy about it, and I feel great."

Koufax led the balloting with 344 votes while Berra received 339 and Wynn 301. A record 396 votes were cast with the players needing to be named on three-quarters of the ballots, or 297, to be elected.

Only one other player besides Koufax, Berra and Wynn ever has received more than 300 votes, Stan Musial who collected 317 in 1969.

Berra and Wynn, like Koufax, had considerable credentials. Berra hit 358 homers while batting .285 for the New York Yankees while Wynn was one of only 14 pitchers in history to win 300 games in a 23-year career with Washington, Cleveland and Chicago.

Willie Wood Becomes Chargers Coach

WASHINGTON (AP) — Willie Wood thinks it's time for a black head coach in the National Football League.

He took the first step Wednesday, retiring as a player to become defensive backfield coach with the San Diego Chargers.

"Eventually I would like to move into a head coaching position," Wood said. "I think the time will come when the NFL will have a black coach. This job will help prepare me to take advantage of the opportunity when it comes."

Oglesby, 22, suffered head and back injuries.

The tragedy struck hard at the basketball team which has been beset by problems since Harris and guard Levi Phillips were declared academically ineligible two weeks ago. Since then the Mountaineers' record has fallen from 5-0 to 7-3.

Walker Wants Yet Another State Crown Before Quitting

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — Paul Walker, Middletown's living legend, wants one more state champion before he retires as Ohio's winningest high school basketball coach.

"I'd like to come to Columbus one more time. I'll let you know when I plan to quit then," said the 60-year-old Walker.

The Tennessee-born, Kentucky-reared Walker has 605 victories and 153 losses in 32 high school basketball seasons, more than any scholastic coach in Ohio history.

"I'm not going to coach very long," drawled Walker, who has a record five state titles and a 76-game winning streak in 26 years with the Middies.

"There's too many problems today. The kids want to do their own thing and you've got to go along with it," explained Walker, who's from the old, hard-line style of coaching.

Despite his feelings about modern methods, Walker says he has a great bunch of kids who have tournament possibilities. The Middies, 9-2, are ranked eighth in the Ohio Class AAA poll.

"We're not big enough, but we're awful quick and shoot well," he said.

Walker hints he will promote talent from an 11-0 reserve squad to provide much-needed depth, too.

If the current squad doesn't win one tournament game, Walker will remember it as the one which produced his 600th coaching victory Dec. 10 at Hamilton Taft.

It's another milestone in the storied career of Walker that took an ironic twist in the mid-1940s. Fired as an assistant coach at Portsmouth in 1946, he coached Middletown to the state tournament championship a year later.

The Pros played the Stars even for the first five minutes and held a 19-17 margin before Beatty & Co. went to work. And when the halftime buzzer signaled an end to their work, the Stars had set a team record for one-half scoring as they took an 80-52 lead into the locker room.

Beatty, playing barely more than that first half, and Charlie Williams of Memphis, shared scoring honors with 28 points apiece. Wise added 23 and Robbins 20 for Utah while George Lehmann had 20 for the Pros.

Kentucky, front-runners in the East, saw its margin over second-place Virginia cut to seven games as Charlie Scott went on a scoring binge for the Squires, pouring in 46 points, and Julius Erving and Doug Moe teamed for 49 more.

Tigers Face Miami Trace, Westfall In Cage Battles

Circleville's Tigers face double action this week when they host Miami Trace in a crucial South Central Ohio League clash Friday night at the Mill St. gym and travel to Westfall Saturday night to take on the Mustangs in a county rivalry battle.

Trace is the current league leader with a 5-0 record, 6-5 overall, and holds a 68-59 decision over the Tigers in a contest played at Miami on Dec. 3.

Circleville, 3-2 in league play

and 6-3 overall, must down the Panthers if the Tigers are going to stay alive in the race for the league crown.

Greenfield currently holds the number two spot in the SCOL with a 4-1 mark and is sporting an overall record of 9-2.

IT was a cold hand from the floor that hurt the Tigers in the first outing with Trace as the Tigers hit 23 of 74 from the floor for a cool 31 per cent.

After a loss to Greenfield, Circleville bounced back last week against Wilmington with a 52 per cent shooting average from the hardwood and a 79 per cent performance from the charity stripe. Another effort like this could be the undoing of the Panthers.

Once again the Tigers will be at a height disadvantage and will really have to pound the boards if they are going to contain the Panthers.

Trace will probably go with Pete Jones, 6-foot-1, and Jack Reno, 5-foot-9, at the guards, Kemmy Goodson, 6-foot-1, at center with Muff Jones, 6-foot-2, and Greg Stockwell, 6-foot-2, at the forwards.

Coach John Lawhorn and his Tigers will counter with the nonpareil Terry Morrison, 5-foot-9, at one guard spot and Glen Gillespie, 5-foot-9, and Greg Hoskins, 5-foot-11 sharing the other guard post.

Dan Graham, 6-foot-1, will man the center position with Don Valentine, 6-foot, and Dave Truex, 6-foot, working up front.

GOOD shooting and rebounding off a pattern offense has been the secret of Trace's success this season and the Tigers can expect to see more of the same Friday night.

Defensively the Panthers utilize a box and one and match-up zone to control the opposition's offensive effort.

A capacity crowd is expected and Mill St. gym should be bulging at the seams when the opening whistle sounds.

The reserve game will get underway at 6:30 p.m. with the Tigers, 3-2 in league action, going against the Panthers who are 5-0 in SCOL competition.

It should be another full house Saturday night when the Tigers invade the corral of Coach Jeff Bigam and the Mustangs.

Circleville owns an 84-62 decision over Westfall in an earlier confrontation but the Mustangs will be going all out in an effort to gain revenge.

WESTFALL has been having its problems this year and suffered another setback this week when Mike Peterson injured his knee and Tom Cook came down sick.

However, the Mustangs will throw everything in the book at Circleville in an effort to gain a victory.

Koufax, Berra, Wynn Are Elected To Hall Of Fame

NEW YORK (AP) — Election to Baseball's Hall of Fame surprised Sandy Koufax, excited Yogi Berra and interrupted Early Wynn's tomato-picking.

Wynn, a 300-game winner who had failed three times previously to be elected to the shrine that houses the sport's heroes, was notified of his election while picking tomatoes at his home in Nokomis, Fla., near Sarasota.

Wynn was grateful.

"I'd been hoping for it," he said, "but I didn't want to build up my hopes too high. It's like being placed up there on a pedestal, not like getting a gold watch for your longtime efforts. It's recognition I was waiting for for a long time."

But, said Wynn, he would have been happier if the honor had been bestowed when he first became eligible. "I don't think I'm as thrilled as I would have been if I had made it the first time," he said. "Naturally, I'm happy. So is my wife. We have had a long wait. I was disappointed the first year and disappointed the second year. The third year I just shrugged it off."

"I would have liked to have joined Stan Musial, Ted Williams and Walter Johnson as players who gained the honor the first year they were eligible."

Koufax did exactly that, becoming the ninth player to make it his first year of eligibility. Others who did it were Jackie Robinson, Bob Feller, Ty Cobb, Babe Ruth, Honus Wagner and Christy Mathewson.

Koufax was surprised by the honor, embellished by a record vote total.

"I'm a little surprised I got as many votes as I did," Koufax explained. "I didn't have as many good years as some others in the Hall and I thought that might count against me."

Koufax pitched for the Los Angeles Dodgers for 12 years before an arthritic elbow ended his career. But it's the last four that made him a Hall of Famer.

From 1963 to 1966 he had records of 25-5, 19-5, 26-8 and 27-9 with earned run averages of 1.88, 1.71, 2.04 and 1.73. He also pitched a non-hitter each year, including a perfect game in 1965.

And that made him, at 36, the youngest player ever to be elected.

"This is the biggest honor I've ever been given, not just in baseball, but in my life," said Koufax.

Berra was even more excited.

"My fans and friends were really pulling for me," said Berra, who missed out by just 23 votes last year when he was eligible for the first time. "My kids are happy about it, and I feel great."

Koufax led the balloting with 344 votes while Berra received 339 and Wynn 301. A record 396 votes were cast with the players needing to be named on three-quarters of the ballots, or 297, to be elected.

Only one other player besides Koufax, Berra and Wynn ever has received more than 300 votes, Stan Musial who collected 317 in 1969.

Berra and Wynn, like Koufax, had considerable credentials. Berra hit 358 homers while batting .285 for the New York Yankees while Wynn was one of only 14 pitchers in history to win 300 games in a 23-year career with Washington, Cleveland and Chicago.

Utah Stars Smash Pros; Win 143-118

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The shooting stars were exploding all over the joint in Utah and, when the blazing ended, it made Memphis' Pros look like amateurs.

Zelmo Beaty, Willie Wise and Red Robbins went on a first-half shooting tear that powered the Utah Stars to a 143-118 American Basketball Association victory over Memphis Wednesday night and enabled them to open a 4½-game lead in the West Division.

In other ABA action, Virginia outlasted Kentucky 138-132, Denver shelled Dallas 116-92 and Carolina edged the Floridians 108-104.

The Pros played the Stars even for the first five minutes and held a 19-17 margin before Beaty & Co. went to work. And when the halftime buzzer signaled an end to their work, the Stars had set a team record for one-half scoring as they took an 80-52 lead into the locker room.

Cage Star Is Killed In Crash

FAIRMONT, W. Va. (AP) — Larry Harris, a former forward for West Virginia University's basketball team who was capable of breaking open a game with long-range shots, was killed near here Wednesday when his car smashed into a bridge abutment on interstate 79.

WVU forward Sam Oglesby, was critically injured in the crash and underwent more than four hours of surgery at University Hospital late Wednesday and early today. Oglesby had been excused from practice Wednesday because of an injury he received in a Tuesday night game.

HOW TO Cut monthly payments

Add up the amount you still owe on your various monthly installment bills. Add the amount you now need for other things. Then call City Loan. Ask for the monthly payment figure on a loan of this amount.

If the loan payment is less than the total you are now paying on your scattered bills—and it usually is—simply add the difference to your own monthly income. You will have this much more each month for your own personal use.

Sound good? Call us and see. There's no obligation. We are here to serve you whenever our service will be to your advantage.

Agnew Criticizes Muskies For 'Fuzzy Thinking, Talk'

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—"Fuzzy thinking" and the "big lie technique" were assailed by Vice President Spiro Agnew during a brief visit in Cleveland Wednesday.

He spoke to about 2,000 persons at the annual Printing Week luncheon at the Hotel Sheraton-Cleveland while about 100 demonstrators carrying anti-war and anti-price freeze signs picketed peacefully outside the hotel.

The vice president criticized U. S. Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, saying the senator's reaction to the Attica, N.Y., prison riot was symptomatic of his "fuzzy thinking."

He quoted the Democratic presidential contender as saying:

"In our sorrow, we can ponder how and why we have reached the point where men would rather die than live another day in America. The Attica tragedy is stark proof that something is terribly wrong in America."

Agnew continued: "What is terribly wrong in America is for its would-be leaders to talk that way."

He said those discussing the Attica riot were talking about "a disreputable assortment of murderers, arsonists, robbers, burglars and rapists as well as a few drug addicts and lesser thieves with long records."

"To say their violent demise is America's fault is symptomatic of the fuzzy thinking we have come to expect from a man whose political ambition so often leads to expedient judgement."

Agnew accused some of America's "most persistent critics" of using the "big lie technique."

"They float charge after charge, secure in the mathematical certainty that, no matter how ridiculous those charges are, they eventually will be accepted as true by some of those who hear them," he said.

The vice president said "a classic example" of the "big lie" was the charge by Black Panther lawyer Charles Garry that "at least 28 Black Panthers had been murdered by the police."

He said Garry's charge was printed by national media, without checking, and that later examination showed that Garry's figure of 28 "had been conjured up out of thin air."

Welfare Costs For Ohio Reach $295 Million

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Welfare cost the State of Ohio $295,624,850 for the first six months of the fiscal year that began July 1, 1970, State Auditor Joseph Ferguson said Wednesday.

December welfare payments accounted for $54.5 million of that total.

Ferguson said the December payments for all welfare categories represented a $5.8 million increase over the previous month.

Aid to Dependent Children programs took the greatest share of the month's welfare money—$16,887,222—also an increase over November. The increases were attributed to expanding ADC rolls.

Movie Theater Appeal Made At Cincinnati

CINCINNATI (AP) — U. S. District Court has been asked to set up a three-judge panel to determine whether any constitutional provisions were violated when an adult movie theater here was closed.

The request was made in a $10 million suit filed by attorneys for the Cinema X theater.

The suit said the theater was closed without due process of law and that a scheme of public censorship was instituted.

Pay Board Gets Data On Ohio State Pay Hike

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The state pay bill became law today but faces another hurdle before Ohio's 49,000 employees receive their 10 per cent across-the-board salary increases.

Following signing of the measure by Gov. John Gilligan today, copies of the legislation headed for review by the federal Pay Board to determine if it meets guidelines of President Nixon's economic program.

While the increases exceed the general federal maximum of 5.5 per cent, exceptions have been made where existing salaries are below average for comparable work.

A federal decision on the Ohio pay package is expected in about a week.

Film On Hirohito To Be Shown Soon

TOKYO (AP) — An official documentary film on Emperor Hirohito's tour of Europe last fall will be shown in Japanese theaters Feb. 1, but pictures of the protests demonstrations in the Netherlands have been censored, the Imperial Household Agency reported today.

The agency would not say why the scenes were cut out.

Officials said the film will be shown abroad later, but no date has been set for that.

Vancouver Docks To Remain Opened

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — Longshoremen here will not be joining the U.S. West Coast dock strike, union spokesmen said Tuesday.

Leaders of the Vancouver local of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union said they will reject any call from U.S. union leaders that they join.

Vancouver longshoremen continued to work throughout the 100-day strike at U.S. West Coast ports last year.

Kissinger Center Of More Controversy

By LEWIS GULICK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. policy toward India and Pakistan has sparked a new round of controversy within Washington officialdom about Henry A. Kissinger's role as President Nixon's master planner and executor of global strategy.

"Henry can sound imperious when he's talking to lower ranking officials, but he's not like that at meetings of the full National Security Council," said one insider who did not want to be named.

A taste of how Kissinger sounds in private was disclosed when columnist Jack Anderson made public secret deliberations of a council subgroup discussing the Indian-Pakistani affair. Publication helped fuel the most recent controversy about Kissinger.

Another insider said of Kissinger, "There's a suspicion that he has overstepped his bounds." But, he added, he has no proof of any presidential loss of confidence in his national-security adviser.

Whatever their opinions, Washington officials widely agree that it is Nixon who makes the big foreign-policy decisions, and not Kissinger, Secretary of State William P. Rogers, or any other subordinate.

But from his first days in the White House three years ago, Kissinger, 48, seemingly tireless, incisive, professionally schooled in international affairs and perceiving the world through the lenses of a big-power strategist, has been a target of potshots from bureaucrats.

Some picture him as arrogant and high-handed—"He does more talking than listening"—and was more interested in cranking his own views into the advice that goes to the President than in adopting others'.

Defenders say the former Harvard professor has done a brilliant job in helping Nixon achieve massive foreign-policy turns in three years. They attribute the criticism to bureaucratic sensitivities and over-worked junior aides.

The Nixon team, heading into the campaign year, is now claiming significant foreign-policy achievements for his first term: the Vietnam pullback; lowered U.S. profile in Asia; the opening to Peking; far-reaching negotiations with Moscow, a cease-fire if not peace in the Middle East.

But Indian-Pakistani policy doesn't make the administration's honors list and, privately, some officials agree with outside critics that the administration botched it.

Some fault U.S. policy for not having pushed hard enough against West Pakistani outrages in East Pakistan. Others say that since India obviously was going to win anyway, Washington should not have sided with the weaker power.

Kissinger was in the thick of U.S. deliberations during the crisis stage, as usual. And the U.S. setback plus some extraordinary circumstances climaxing in publication of the secret papers by Anderson set off the fresh controversy over his activities.

The papers obtained by Anderson include notes taken by

IRA Escape Plan Foiled By Troops

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — More than 1,000 troops and police swooped down on Long Kesh internment camp near Belfast early today, reportedly to foil a mass escape.

The camp, surrounded by barbed wire and guards, holds several hundred men interned without trial as suspected members of the Irish Republican Army.

Army spokesmen refused to reveal the reason for the descent on the camp, but one said: "An extensive check is going on."

All roads to the camp were blocked, and visits to the inmates were banned for 24 hours.

One unconfirmed report said the security forces were seeking materials assembled inside the fence in preparation for a breakout.

No internee has escaped from Long Kesh, but there have been several breakouts by IRA suspects from Belfast's Crumlin Road jail, and on Monday night seven men slipped through a porthole on the prison ship Maidstone in Belfast harbor.

Marijuana Growth Becomes Problem

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — Agriculture Commissioner Gus Douglass told the state House Finance Committee Tuesday his department will need $250,000 over the next five years to bring the growth of marijuana under control.

Douglass said the growth of marijuana is now a problem of "major proportions" in the state and that his survey crews have sighted 2,605 acres of it growing in the Potomac River Valley.

the Defense Department representative at four Washington Special Action Group sessions during the two-week Indian-Pakistani war last month.

Jackie Drops Damage Suit At Hearing

NEW YORK (AP) — An attorney for Jacqueline Onassis says she intends to withdraw her claim for monetary damages from free-lance photographer Ronald Galella.

Galella, who has made something of a career of photographing the former first lady and her two children, sued Mrs. Onassis for $1.3 million charging he was harassed by Secret Service agents who broke his camera.

Mrs. Onassis filed a $1.5 million countersuit, claiming that Galella was the harasser. The suit, on four grounds, would total $6 million damages.

Simon H. Rifkind, Mrs. Onassis' lawyer, told a U.S. District Court hearing Wednesday that she "intends to withdraw her counterclaim for monetary damages." He did not elaborate.

The hearing was held before Judge Irving Ben Cooper to arrange for action on pretrial motions and the setting of a trial date. He indicated the case could come to trial in February.

Galella is under orders from Cooper to stay at least 100 yards from Mrs. Onassis' Fifth Avenue apartment and 50 yards from the family when they leave the building.

Democrats Blast Budget Deficit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Ohio Democrats reacted sharply Wednesday to reports that the federal deficit for the current fiscal year could run to nearly $40 billion.

Rep. Charles Vanik called the reports "the most shocking news of the new year" and a "fiscal disaster that should frighten every American."

Rep. Wayne Hays asserted the Republicans, who usually oppose deficit spending, are silent when a Republican President's budget goes into the red.

Hays was replying to a statement by Republican Leader Gerald Ford of Michigan that Democrats "are in no position to talk about any deficit" because, he said, the majority of them voted for bills to increase spending over President Nixon's budget.

Central Intelligence Agency: "I am getting hell every half-hour from the President that we are not being tough enough on India. He has just called me again. He does not believe we are carrying out his wishes."

"He wants to tilt in favor of Pakistan. He feels everything we are doing comes out otherwise."

Sources familiar with WSAG sessions have made these points:

—The situation portrayed by the Anderson papers shows the basic course had already been set by the President.

—WSAG was shaping tactics, not policy.

A meeting of the full National Security Council is a more formal affair. The President presides. Kissinger is outranked on these occasions and his demeanor has been described then as more deferential than in WSAG sessions where he is chairman.

Salt Iodide Labeling Is Ordered

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration is ordering salt manufacturers to indicate on the label the iodide content of all table salts.

Currently, iodized salt must be labeled as such, but non-iodized salt need not carry any reference to the chemical.

Iodide combats goiter and has been added to about half the nation's marketed salt for that purpose. In Canada, salt is required to contain the chemical.

The new regulation will take effect in 18 months and will require that any salt not treated with iodide be labeled:

"This salt does not supply iodide, a necessary nutrient."

The Salt Institute, whose members produce 90 per cent of the nation's salt, had urged a consumer survey of the labeling idea, but FDA decided against it.

The administration did modify an earlier proposal on the regulation by reducing the print size and exempting from the rule packages of less than half an ounce or more than 2½ pounds.

The institute said the small portions, used mainly in restaurants, are already iodized. Larger packages, it said, are bought primarily for use in home pickling and canning, where iodide would produce a cloudy look.

IRA Escape Plan Foiled By Troops

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — More than 1,000 troops and police swooped down on Long Kesh internment camp near Belfast early today, reportedly to foil a mass escape.

The camp, surrounded by barbed wire and guards, holds several hundred men interned without trial as suspected members of the Irish Republican Army.

Army spokesmen refused to reveal the reason for the descent on the camp, but one said: "An extensive check is going on."

All roads to the camp were blocked, and visits to the inmates were banned for 24 hours.

One unconfirmed report said the security forces were seeking materials assembled inside the fence in preparation for a breakout.

No internee has escaped from Long Kesh, but there have been several breakouts by IRA suspects from Belfast's Crumlin Road jail, and on Monday night seven men slipped through a porthole on the prison ship Maidstone in Belfast harbor.

Marijuana Growth Becomes Problem

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — Agriculture Commissioner Gus Douglass told the state House Finance Committee Tuesday his department will need $250,000 over the next five years to bring the growth of marijuana under control.

Douglass said the growth of marijuana is now a problem of "major proportions" in the state and that his survey crews have sighted 2,605 acres of it growing in the Potomac River Valley.

Jackie Drops Damage Suit At Hearing

NEW YORK (AP) — An attorney for Jacqueline Onassis says she intends to withdraw her claim for monetary damages from free-lance photographer Ronald Galella.

Galella, who has made something of a career of photographing the former first lady and her two children, sued Mrs. Onassis for $1.3 million charging he was harassed by Secret Service agents who broke his camera.

Mrs. Onassis filed a $1.5 million countersuit, claiming that Galella was the harasser. The suit, on four grounds, would total $6 million damages.

Simon H. Rifkind, Mrs. Onassis' lawyer, told a U.S. District Court hearing Wednesday that she "intends to withdraw her counterclaim for monetary damages." He did not elaborate.

The hearing was held before Judge Irving Ben Cooper to arrange for action on pretrial motions and the setting of a trial date. He indicated the case could come to trial in February.

Galella is under orders from Cooper to stay at least 100 yards from Mrs. Onassis' Fifth Avenue apartment and 50 yards from the family when they leave the building.

Democrats Blast Budget Deficit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Ohio Democrats reacted sharply Wednesday to reports that the federal deficit for the current fiscal year could run to nearly $40 billion.

Rep. Charles Vanik called the reports "the most shocking news of the new year" and a "fiscal disaster that should frighten every American."

Rep. Wayne Hays asserted the Republicans, who usually oppose deficit spending, are silent when a Republican President's budget goes into the red.

Hays was replying to a statement by Republican Leader Gerald Ford of Michigan that Democrats "are in no position to talk about any deficit" because, he said, the majority of them voted for bills to increase spending over President Nixon's budget.

Central Intelligence Agency: "I am getting hell every half-hour from the President that we are not being tough enough on India. He has just called me again. He does not believe we are carrying out his wishes."

"He wants to tilt in favor of Pakistan. He feels everything we are doing comes out otherwise."

Source familiar with WSAG sessions have made these points:

—The situation portrayed by the Anderson papers shows the basic course had already been set by the President.

—WSAG was shaping tactics, not policy.

A meeting of the full National Security Council is a more formal affair. The President pre-

Find Man Guilty Of Slaying Over 'Bad Dope' Buy

CINCINNATI (AP) — A Lexington, Ky. man began an indeterminate prison term today after pleading guilty Wednesday to the fatal shooting of a Cincinnati heroin pusher who sold him "bad dope."

Leonard Andrew Young, 24, had been indicted on a second-degree murder charge but was allowed to plead guilty to the lesser charge in Hamilton County Common Pleas Court.

Young told Judge John W. Keefe that he and the victim, Edward Bell, 29, had argued after Young accused Bell of selling him "bad dope," heroin that was cut too thin, thereby losing its potency.

Murder charges against two other men who had accompanied Young were ignored by the Hamilton County grand jury. The shooting occurred in April, 1970.

sides. Kissinger is outranked on these occasions and his demeanor has been described then as more deferential than in WSAG sessions where he is chairman.

Salt Iodide Labeling Is Ordered

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration is ordering salt manufacturers to indicate on the label the iodide content of all table salts.

Currently, iodized salt must be labeled as such, but non-iodized salt need not carry any reference to the chemical.

Iodide combats goiter and has been added to about half the nation's marketed salt for that purpose. In Canada, salt is required to contain the chemical.

The new regulation will take effect in 18 months and will require that any salt not treated with iodide be labeled:

"This salt does not supply iodide, a necessary nutrient."

The Salt Institute, whose members produce 90 per cent of the nation's salt, had urged a consumer survey of the labeling idea, but FDA decided against it.

The administration did modify an earlier proposal on the regulation by reducing the print size and exempting from the rule packages of less than half an ounce or more than 2½ pounds.

The institute said the small portions, used mainly in restaurants, are already iodized. Larger packages, it said, are bought primarily for use in home pickling and canning, where iodide would produce a cloudy look.

Welfare Costs For Ohio Reach $295 Million

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Welfare cost the State of Ohio $295,624,850 for the first six months of the fiscal year that began July 1, 1970, State Auditor Joseph Ferguson said Wednesday.

December welfare payments accounted for $54.5 million of that total.

Ferguson said the December payments for all welfare categories represented a $5.8 million increase over the previous month.

Aid to Dependent Children programs took the greatest share of the month's welfare money—$16,887,222—also an increase over November. The increases were attributed to expanding ADC rolls.

Movie Theater Appeal Made At Cincinnati

CINCINNATI (AP) — U. S. District Court has been asked to set up a three-judge panel to determine whether any constitutional provisions were violated when an adult movie theater here was closed.

The request was made in a $10 million suit filed by attorneys for the Cinema X theater.

The suit said the theater was closed without due process of law and that a scheme of public censorship was instituted.

Pay Board Gets Data On Ohio State Pay Hike

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The state pay bill became law today but faces another hurdle before Ohio's 49,000 employees receive their 10 per cent across-the-board salary increases.

Following signing of the measure by Gov. John Gilligan today, copies of the legislation headed for review by the federal Pay Board to determine if it meets guidelines of President Nixon's economic program.

While the increases exceed the general federal maximum of 5.5 per cent, exceptions have been made where existing salaries are below average for comparable work.

A federal decision on the Ohio pay package is expected in about a week.

Film On Hirohito To Be Shown Soon

TOKYO (AP) — An official documentary film on Emperor Hirohito's tour of Europe last fall will be shown in Japanese theaters Feb. 1, but pictures of the protests demonstrations in the Netherlands have been censored, the Imperial Household Agency reported today.

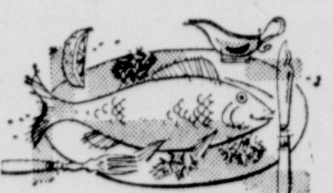

The agency would not say why the scenes were cut out. Officials said the film will be shown abroad later, but no date has been set for that.

Vancouver Docks To Remain Opened

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — Longshoremen here will not be joining the U.S. West Coast dock strike, union spokesmen said Tuesday.

Leaders of the Vancouver local of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union said they will reject any call from U.S. union leaders that they join.

Vancouver longshoremen continued to work throughout the 100-day strike at U.S. West Coast ports last year.
